English IV teacher Mrs. Elizabeth Micheal suggests revisions to Chad Ferrel's literary critique. ▶

The sun broke over the horizon. The campus was still.

Cars began to filter into the student parking lot, gradually taking up the spaces closest to the school.

The lines of cars began to lengthen and the pace quickened as radios blared and people scrambled for the remaining spaces as far away as the Aquatic Center or even Haggard Middle School.

Already inside, students filled the hallways, some nervously looking for their first period classes, others trying new locker combinations. Self confident seniors mingled among classmates in the cafeteria.

Teachers waited in their classrooms for the 8:30 a.m. bell to signal the beginning of another term.

The halls cleared as the bell rang on schedule

It was the beginning of a reoccuring story: The fall, the beginning of school. A Classic.

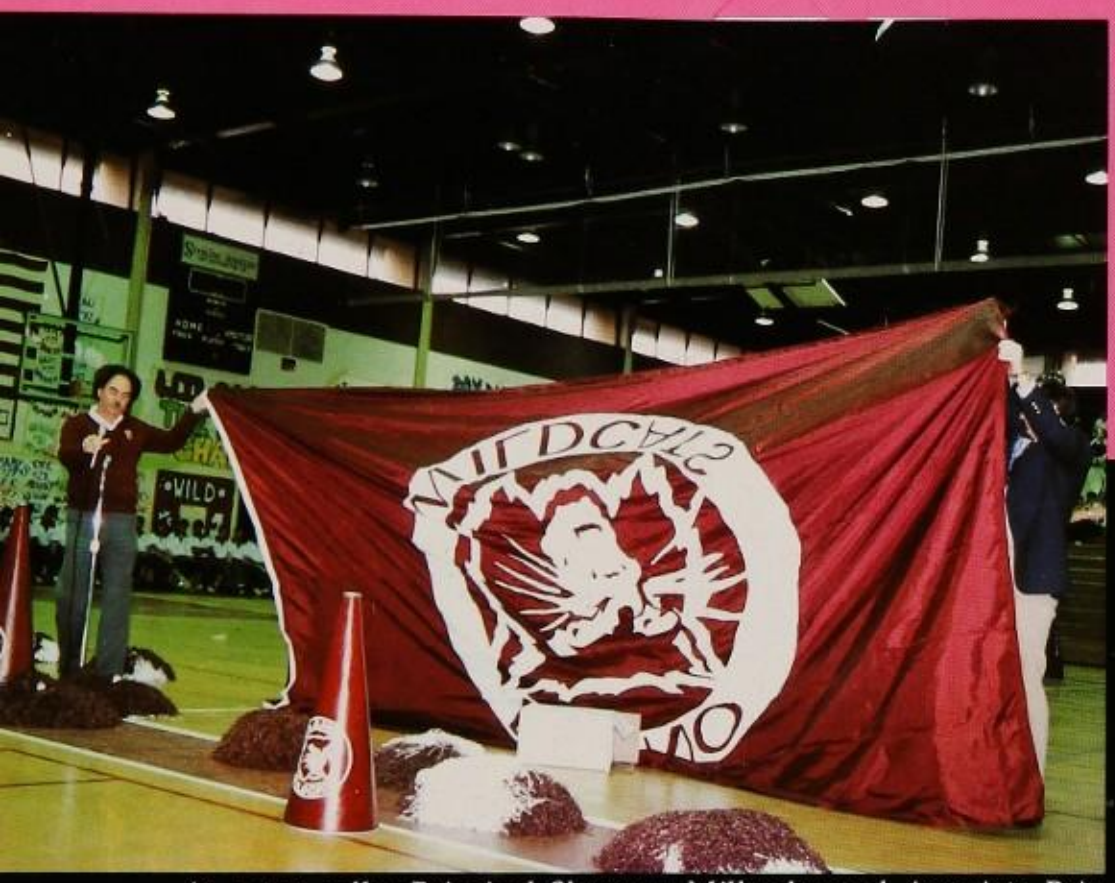
Getting into the spirit of it

The first signs of fall appeared in September.

Temperatures began to drop and colors of yellow, brown, and orange intermixed with the Maroon and White that dominated the campus.

On a routine basis, student fans showed support for the football team as they attended pep rallies, decorated cars, and cheered for the Cats at Clark Field.

Plano spirit was not limited to the playing field, it was an aspect of daily life at PSHS . . . through involvement in organizations, competitions, achievements, and pride in the school.



At a pep rally, Principal Sherman Millender and Associate Principal Larry Guinn present the school with a new spirit flag.

Prior to the homecoming game, Student Senate members sell spirit balloons to be released during halftime.

During the fall, the varsity cheerleaders kept the crowd spirited at the football games.

A DECADE

Changes. They are noticed in the seasons.

With 90 to 100 degree days of summer behind them, students endured seemingly never ending days of rain in the fall. Winter descended bringing record cold and snowfall. When spring arrived early, its warmth signalled graduation, the completion of another year.

For Plano Senior High School, it was the completion of its 10th year. A milestone of changes.

In 1975, the school opened its doors on a five building campus to sophomores as well as juniors and seniors. By the following year, the sophomores were housed in a new high school, leaving the senior high campus for the junior and senior students only.

The 1977 football season began with the addition of the multi-million dollar John Clark Field. The Wildcats put the jewel in the crown by capturing the State AAAA Championship the same year.

In 1982, PSHS welcomed a second senior high school to the district — Plano East Senior High. It was at the end of this year that PSHS graduated the largest class in the nation.

Even more changes have occurred in 1985 with the passage of the controversial House Bill 72.

As PSHS celebrates its 10th anniversary, it serves as a reminder of progress, change, and anticipation in public education not only in Texas, but across the nation.

During one of the many rainy days of fall, students fill the stairway of Building C to avoid getting wet.

Enjoying the warm weather, seniors Andy Fry, Catherine Conkwright, and Michelle Johnson spend their lunch hour by the pond.

Intermixed with diversified backgrounds, the 2,700 students who attended the school represented a certain uniqueness.

Some came from places as far away as Europe and South America on exchange programs. Others lived here all their lives. Between moments of solitude when students engaged in their studies, strong friendships developed.

JUST ON the FACE OF IT

A group of juniors has fun at a basketball game.

For the thrill of it

The excitement of the crowd as the scoreboard flashes "Welcome to Texas Stadium."

The long awaited game for athletes, musicians, and cheerleaders who had prepared for weeks, even months, in advance was about to begin.

From the moment Plano met Kimball in the bi-district playoffs, fans stood on the their feet. Electricity filled the air. Whether sad or glad at the outcome, it was the thrill of the match that would be remembered.

It was times like these — simpler times — that will be cherished the most.

During the National School Lunch Week cashier Rosie Mege dresses up Spanish-style for Mexican food.

In an exciting moment against PESH, varsity basketball player Steve Hegg jumps over an opponent to gain possession.

LEARNING

For the Sake of it

Special emphasis on academics became more apparent as a "back to the basics" approach was taken in Texas schools.

Juniors and seniors alike seemed to realize the importance of their last years in high school and took more academic and career oriented courses in preparation for college and future careers.

A wide variety of course offerings helped students find a place at PSHS. From Advanced Placement English, foreign language, Social Studies Major Studies to computer training and technical courses, there was a place for everyone.

During a Student Senate meeting, senior Kristi Vance approaches other members with a new proposal.

Mrs. Jean Appleton explains the symbolism expressed in Lord of the Flies to her sixth period English IV class. ▼

Excelling

for the glory of it

Doing your best was a big part of finding success in school. Excelling gave students opportunities to win special recognition.

Through academic-related organizations, students competed as individuals as well as members of a team. Opportunities were provided as a member of groups like Whiz Quiz, Academic Decathlon, and UIL.

The establishment of A-Teams allowed the academically motivated students to enhance their knowledge in extra curricular programs for English, Math, Social Studies, Science and Computer Math.

Advanced placement classes encouraged students to gain college credit.

After school, Math A-Team members James Quach and Carrie Flick review for competition. ▼

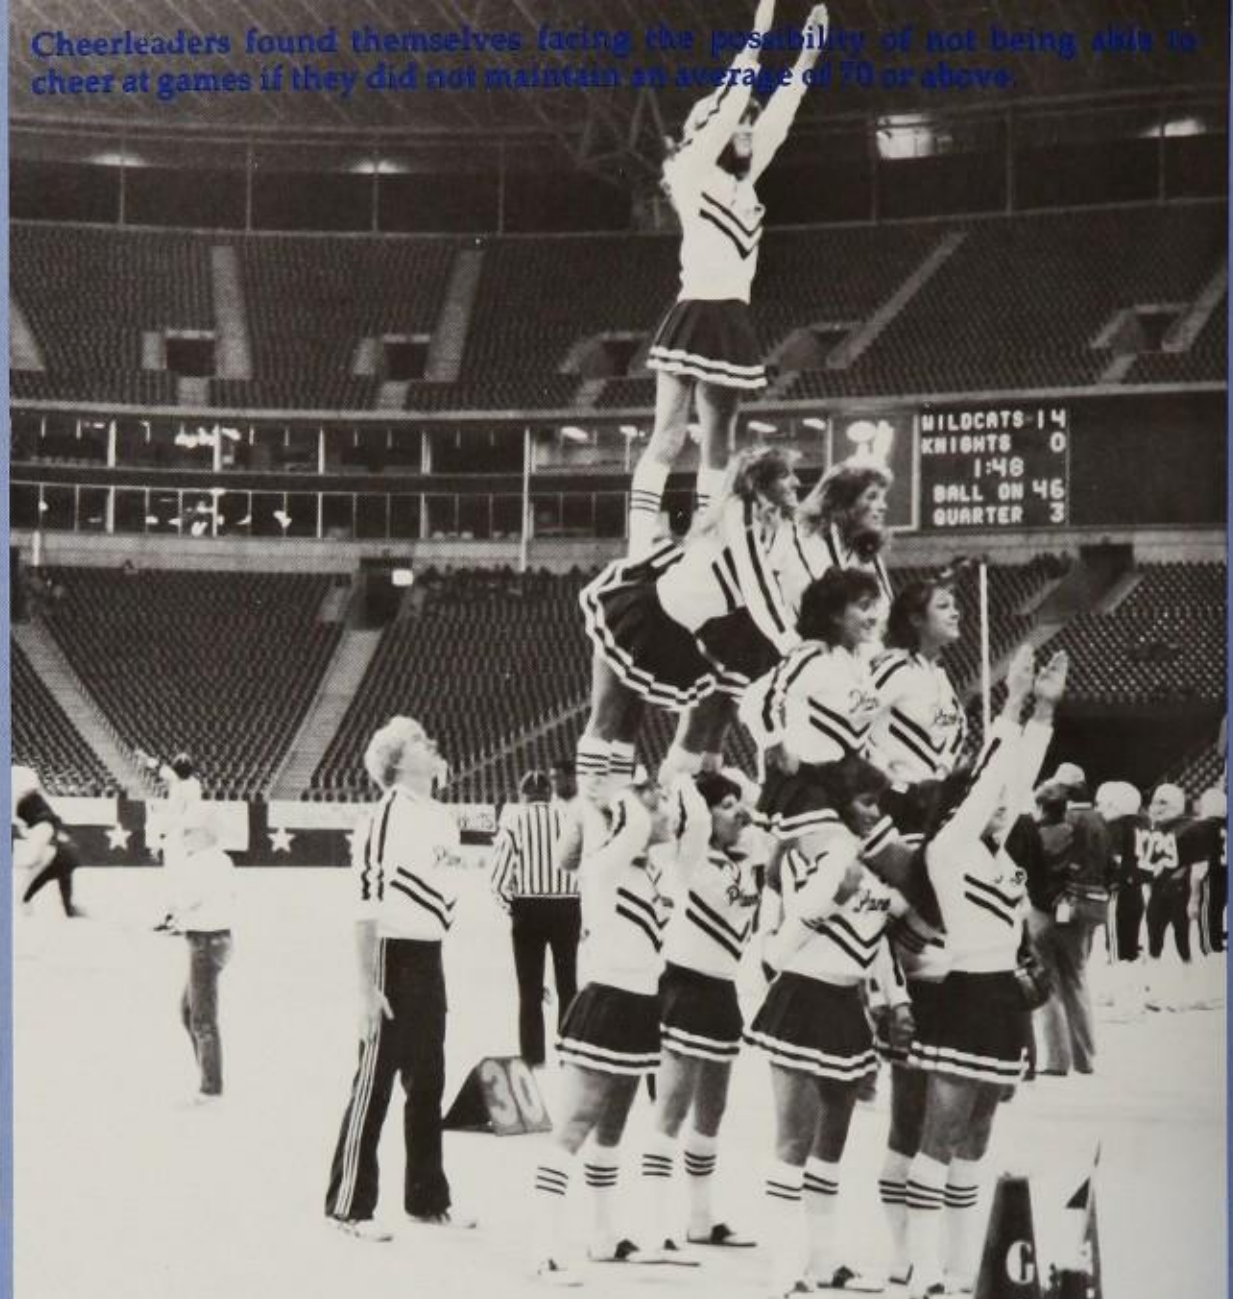
Getting into the Spirit of It

On Valentines Day, junior Brad Sears surprised friend Missy Dungan with a romantic lunch by the pond.

Student Life



Cheerleaders found themselves facing the possibility of not being able to cheer at games if they did not maintain an average of 70 or above.

TAKING A STAND

ON HOUSE BILL 72

In some ways, House Bill 72 could be described as a tornado. Beginning with rumblings of dissension among Texas educators, it gathered strength and support until it swept through the legislature with the dynamic force of lasting reform. Some of the changes were dramatic, while others were minor.

For Plano students, many of the new policies were like extra burdens. But once students got accustomed to them, the policies became everyday habits. One of the policies that received the most attention was the requirement of weekly progress reports in order to participate in extra-curricular activities. Students who did not maintain a 70 or above grade average were not allowed to take part in school related activities outside the classroom.

Since a grade below 70 was failing, tutorial programs were set up at least twice a week in major classes.

Also new was the elimination of social promotion and the letter grade "D." The student absence policy was tightened considerably. Students could not receive credit for a class if more than five unexcused absences occurred per semester. One of the most controversial policies for senior high students was the mandate to forbid second semester senior exemptions.

"It seems unfair to take away senior exemptions. It was a privilege for those who deserved it because of good attendance and grade average," said senior Mike Corum.

"Although the six unexcused absences/no credit ruling did not affect me, it caused a lot of students to think twice before skipping classes or neglecting an excuse for a legitimate absence," states senior Wendy Shaw.

Economics teacher Mary Jo Lewis defined House Bill 72 as the good, the bad, and the ugly. She felt, "It is always good to raise standards, however, it is bad when already superior schools are forced to compromise their programs in order to allow for improvement in inferior schools. It is ugly when only 60% of qualifying teachers can achieve career ladder status."

"It doesn't seem fair for any athlete to go through training and make a team, then be banned from playing for one six weeks failing grade," stated varsity football player James Lee.

"I believe the intent of House Bill 72 was good, but statewide, it effected changes in many schools. We have always tried to maintain a high standard of excellence," stated Larry Guinn.

House Bill 72 cast its shadow on morning pep rallies as it limited schools to only six shortened school days. PSHS held five pep rallies allowing one extra day for a special event.

"I think we all realized that over all the states education system had its shortcomings. Few of us want mediocrity. At the same time, overnight changes are difficult. It took us years to get to the point of realizing how lacking the system was. Now it's not just 'back to the basics' easy," stated journalism teacher Joyce Levy.

HOMECOMING '84

"Can't let go"

Preparations for Homecoming often seemed infinite. Between guys finding a compatible date to girls purchasing the perfect dress, both experienced a sense of excitement. Corsages and mums for the girls and boutonniers for the guys were not to be forgotten as the memorable night drew near.

Reigning over the class of '85 as Homecoming Queen was Nancy Metz. Senior finalists were Kimber Roubinek, Lisa Rowley and Debra Smith. Junior attendants were Mechelle Gilliland and Christine Schultz. With Friday's 35-6 win over Greenville, the mood was set for an exciting and memorable Saturday night. At the dance, students jammed to Nippy Jones and the Night People who played a variety of upbeat songs. The theme "Can't Let Go" seemed appropriate as many couples found it difficult to leave.

With maroon and white guards supporting the spirit sign at halftime, Wildcat football players burst through on their way to conquering Greenville, 35-6.

SPRING BREAK '85

While seniors viewed spring break as their last chance to vacation with friends before graduation, juniors took advantage of the five-day break from school as well. Record numbers of students traveled to the sunny shores of Padre Island. A lucky few were able to travel to exotic places like Mexico, Europe, and Hawaii. Still others stayed home to work or simply enjoy being with their families.

A lucky group of students join teachers on a sightseeing trip to England and Ireland.

During spring break, seniors Cheryl Wiemer and Mike Corum spend an afternoon hanging around the Dallas Zoo.

On the sandy beaches of Cancun, Mexico, seniors Michelle Loncar and Kim Knightstep take refuge from the rays.

Trying a special stunt, senior Andy Evans gets help from the rest of the well-skirted cheerleaders.

PUFF 'N STUFF

Two valiant armies of maroon and white roared through cleverly colored spirit signs as the crowd cheered. The band did not play because there was not one. The senior girls vs. the junior girls powder puff football game had all the elements of a true-blue Plano sports event.

Parents buried their heads after seeing their sons dressed in frilly drill team skirts complete with hats and loads of make-up. The 12 member drill team high-kicked their 24 unshaven legs in unison.

Despite the fact that neither the senior or junior puffs could score, the first Plano powder puff game proved to be one of spring's wildest and craziest events.

Prior to the Powder Puff football game, the junior spirit banner is raised at Williams Stadium.

Before being tackled by a junior puff, senior Kim Knightstep intercepts the ball.

Working FOR THE WEEKEND

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" seems to be the philosophy of today's students. More than half of Plano students maintain their grades while working in the afternoons and evenings. On the other hand, teachers find working no excuse for poor grades.

Some use the earnings to pay off a new car while others save for special trips or put their money aside for college years.

Still, the student employees find time to have fun on the weekends at concerts, movies, or just plain partying with friends.

Junior Laura Lewis rings up a sale at Tannery West for senior Stephanie Langham and her friend.

At Jerry's Perfect Pets, senior Debbie Wilson packs a mouse to go.

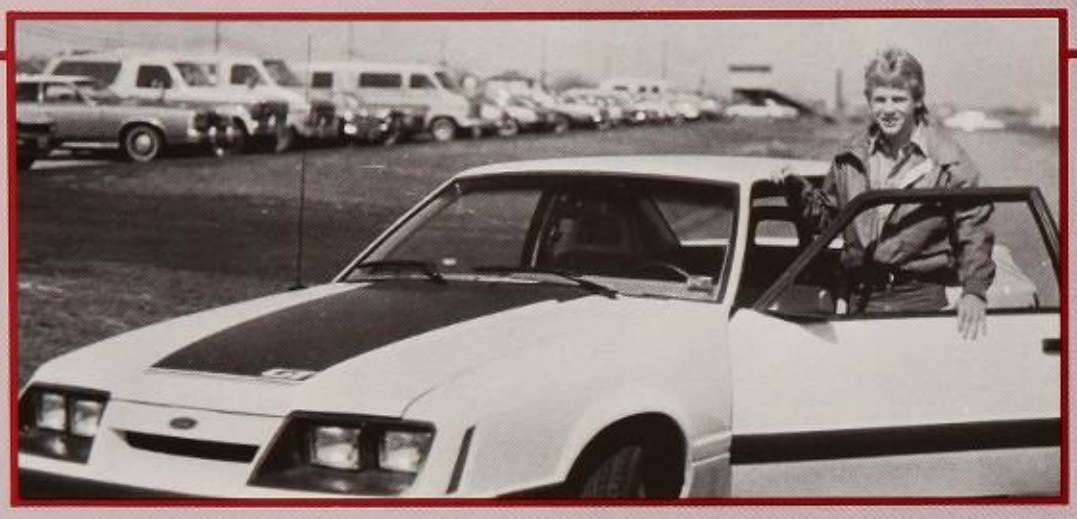
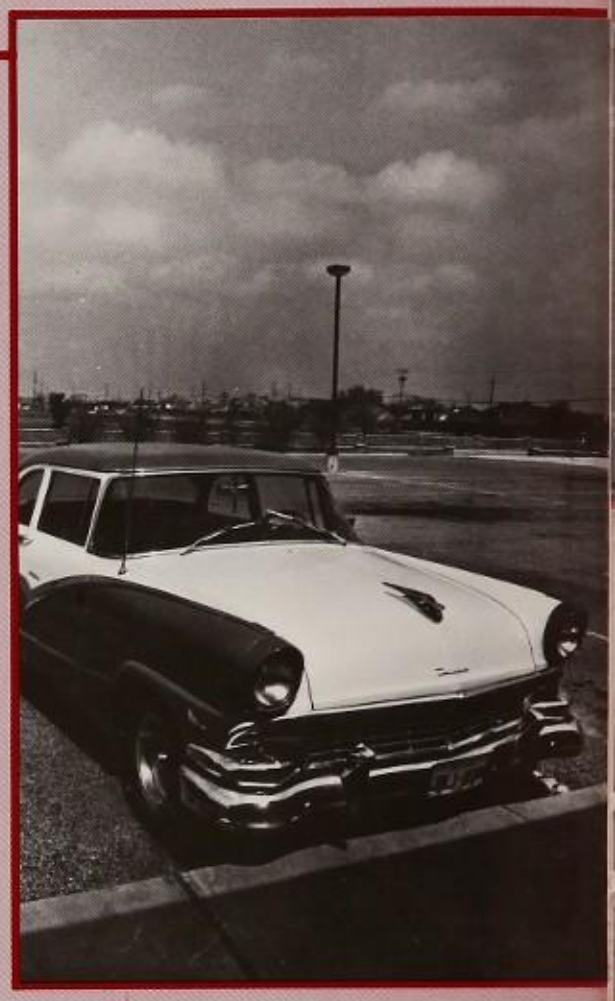
LOVE MY CAR



Senior Brian Brooks garners the envy of many students with his car — a 1985 Ford Mustang GT. Brian plans to drive it throughout college. Selected for its classic styling and performance, the "Stang" boasts a variety of features. Options such as a 5.0 liter high-output V-8 engine and TRX suspension package add to its overall appeal.

Mustang



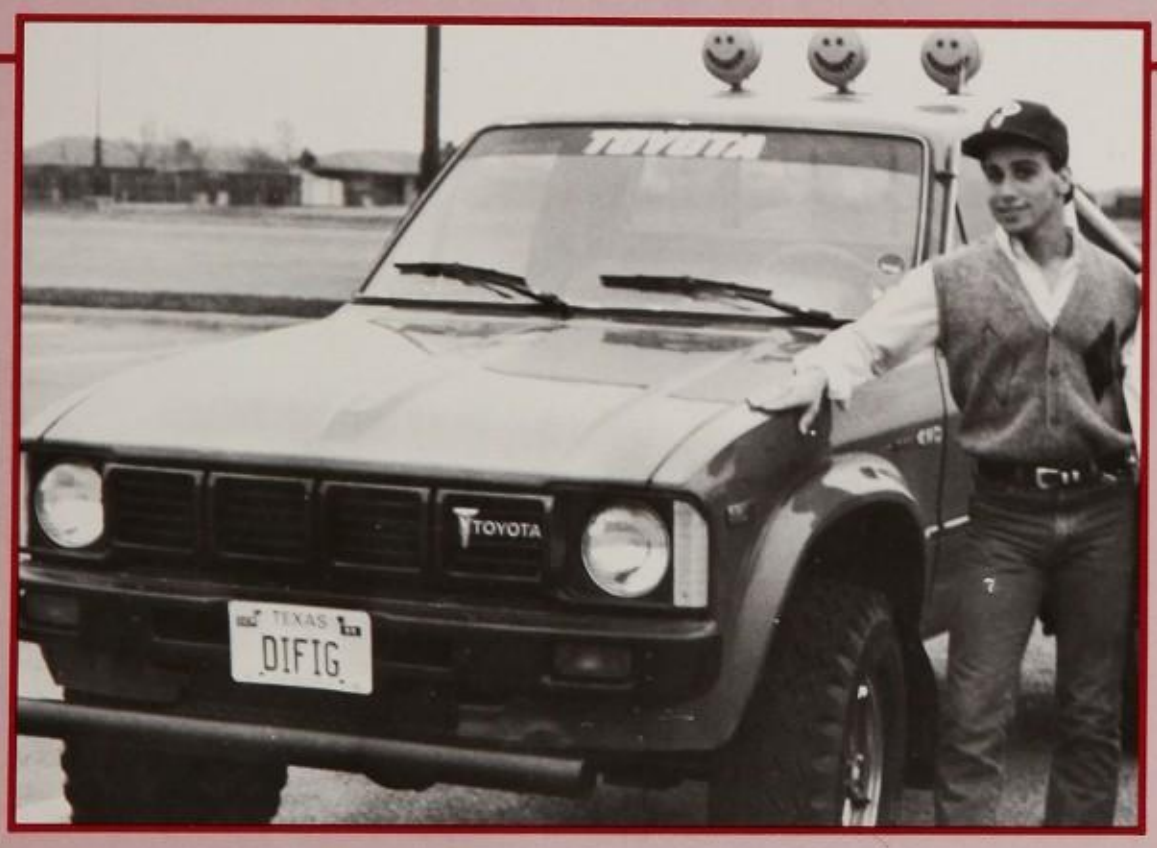
Alone and searching for his car in the expanded student parking lot, senior Mike Nicol wonders if he has to wait until the other 1,400 cars are driven away.

Fairlane

Junior Pat Ibison takes great pride in his 1956 Ford Fairlane Crown Victoria. Repainted in 1963, the car's red and white finish has been kept to a sparkling gloss by Pat's routine wash and wax each Sunday. Pat bought "Bubba" from his brother two years ago and is currently paying off a loan. Already an antique with 230,000 miles, the car is one of only 150 manufactured. Pat plans to keep "Bubba" for as long as he can.

Owner of a 1959 American Motors Nash Metropolitan, Nyla Lembke purchased the antique in 1977. The "Met" took a full three and a half months to restore. Her grandfather is responsible for rebuilding the body, engine, and even some of the mechanical parts. After Nyla graduates from high school, her father and grandfather plan to take the car to classic antique auto shows.

Metropolitan



Toyota 4x4

Senior Chuck Difiglia could be seen sporting around school in a 1980 Toyota 4 X 4. One of many students who choose Toyota trucks because of their dependability and easy maintenance, he plans to keep it for two years. Chuck enjoys the advantages of his truck by loading it up with hunting and fishing supplies for weekend trips.

Dressed to a tee, seniors Amy Martin, Tauna Benson, and their dates sign up at the photographer's table to have pictures made.

Almost 600 couples spent an evening of festive celebration at Market Hall.

Seniors Jane Masters and Chuck Walker enjoy each other's company amidst hundreds of dancing couples.

Senior Dana Pifer and her date were one of the many couples who danced and romanced at Prom.

A special closeness was shared by many of those who attended Prom including junior Debbie Dobat and senior Jake Kaminsky.

PROM '85 "ONE MORE NIGHT"

A night not soon to be forgotten — May 11 — Prom Night, 1985.

After weeks of apprehension and extensive planning, the night finally arrived. The evening began around 5:30 with couples in formal attire and rented luxury cars going to Dallas' fanciest restaurants.

By 9 p.m., couples began arriving at Market Hall where KAFM's Pete Thompson provided the music. Then it was off to individual parties which often lasted into the early morning hours.

With all the festive activities, prom's theme seemed only appropriate — give me just "One More Night."

Junior Pam Brewer is helped from a limousine by a chauffeur.

Seniors share special service

The first official ceremony for graduates was the Baccalaureate service in the school gymnasium on Sunday, May 26. Activities began with the processional of seniors led by the junior class officers. The school choir performed the Alma Mater as well as two special selections — "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

Father John Libone, priest at St. Marks Catholic Church, addressed the Senior Class on pride, celebration, and the future!

A capacity crowd of parents and friends gathered in Moody Coliseum on Saturday, June 1, to see more than 1,075 students graduate.

Seniors lined up and nervously adjusted their caps and collars as pianist Beverly Garms began the processional. The two hour and 15 minute ceremony included addresses by seniors Chris Anthony Fonzo, Brad Taylor, valedictorian Jennifer Pawleck and salutatorian Sareeta Agarwal. Class president Brad Hairston served as Master of Ceremonies.

Special celebrations were held following the graduation ceremony at places like Southfork Ranch where a district party was sponsored by Students Against Drunk Driving.

Beatlemania lives on

What is a Beatlemaniac? One who is fascinated by the world of insects? Wrong! A true Beatlemaniac is someone who collects posters, albums, buttons, and other paraphernalia related to the late '60s' musical phenomenon . . . the Beatles.

While the majority of "hard core" Beatle fans are middle-aged, the generation gap is being filled with today's youth who follow the Beatles' influence on today's music. Seniors like Bryan James and Mark Probus can tell you the respect for the Beatles is in evidence today. Both call the Beatles their favorite group at a time when synthetic music rules the industry.

Bryan began his Beatlemania in elementary school when he received one of their albums for a present. Mark became interested in the Beatles in eighth grade when his brother sparked his interest. Ever since they began listening to the band, both have acquired a never-ending collection of Beatles paraphernalia. Posters line the walls of their rooms. Bryan has a large collection of Beatles T-shirts and a wallet with their logo. Mark also collects T-shirts and wears a Beatles' windbreaker. Of course, both have a major collection of albums.

Senior Mark Probus stands by one of his many Beatles items, a life-size poster of John Lennon.

The Beatles still stand as the most influential band in the history of rock 'n roll. "Although there are many great rock bands, there will probably never be a band to match the Beatles," said Bryan.

The Beatles legacy continues into another generation with the success of Julian Lennon, but few will match the enduring popularity of that '60s phenomenon, the Beatles.

Soccer players travel worldwide

"Soccer is a way to show your competiveness, to let out your emotions and display what you are made of," said senior Barbara Garland.

Barbara and classmate Eric Kos exemplify athletic prowess in one of the most popular youth sports today, soccer. Both seniors have traveled throughout the world competing in amateur tournaments.

Eric has played in matches in England and France. He was a member of the select team, The Flame, and played with the North Texas state team as well as for the classic league champions, The Kicks.

Barbara too, has traveled abroad, competing in countries like Russia, Finland, and Canada. In addition, she toured China with her team, Sting, at the beginning of her senior year.

The sport is unique and enables an athlete to display his or her individual physical abilities and yet to maintain a closeness with their team.

Senior Eric Kos has been playing soccer for nine years, including trips to France and England for tournaments.

Senior Denise Betz's modeling job has turned into an acting career.

Student films on MTV

"I just happened to be in the right place at the right time with the right people," said Denise Betz, who began acting and modeling the summer before her senior year.

It all started when Denise spotted an ad in the "Dallas Observer" for the Miller-Turpin Agency which was looking for new faces. She auditioned for Cindy Miller, one of the agencies' owners, and got the job.

This was just the beginning. After joining the agency, Denise added several credits to her list of appearances. On television, Denise appeared in an episode of the show "Dallas." She also performed on "Dance in America" and appeared in a music video on MTV.

Denise was selected to represent the Hot Lixx Girl on an MTV commercial. Hott Lixx, a line of clothing, featured Denise not only in their commercial, but also in their TV documentary, "The Making of the Hot Lixx Girl."

Always working to better her talents, Denise takes six dance classes each week and also attends acting classes. "Being a dancer, I know that training is essential," Denise commented.

"My motto is be true to yourself, and do what you feel is right. Follow your instincts. Bear with it and have patience," she concluded.

Intriguing senior recalls past

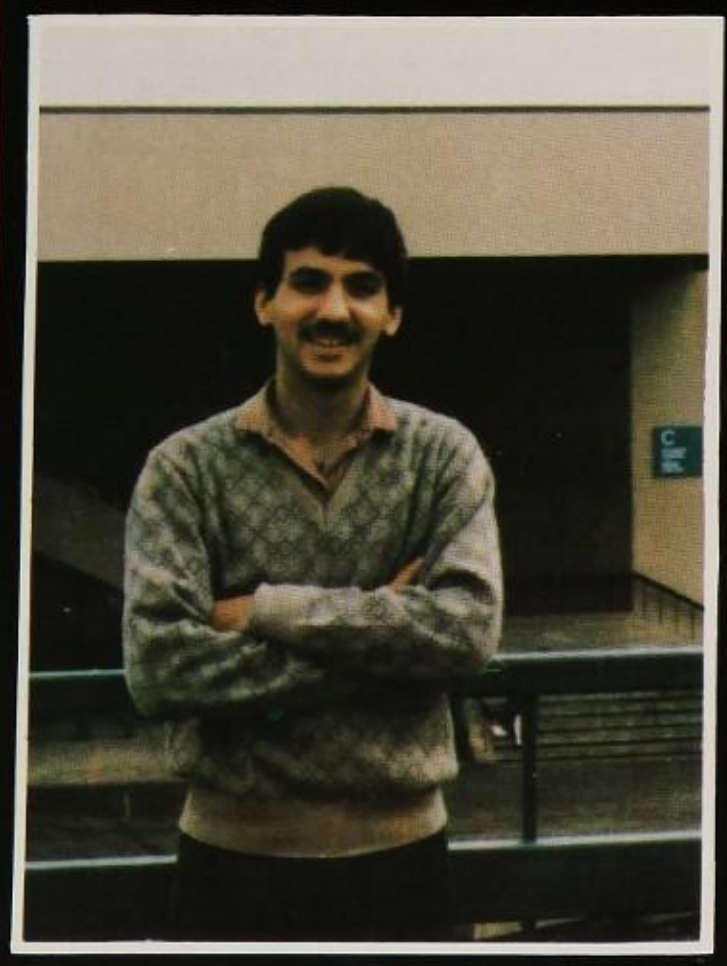
Students come to Plano from all parts of the world. Some come from Europe on exchange programs, some when their parents move here, still others because of strife in their homelands.

Among the latter, is 19-year-old Ghassan Ghraizi. When the civil war started in Lebanon, his family fled to Nigeria. "The war started less than two hundred meters from my home," Ghassan reminisces. "It was an awful feeling." From there, he migrated to Plano where he lives with an older sister. He will graduate from Plano and plans to go to college in the United States.

"Foreign schools are all basically the same. In Lebanon, mathematics is stressed. While in England, the emphasis was on writing skills. That's where I learned the true English," he said.

Ghassan thinks that life in the U.S. is like in England. "One thing Americans take for granted is their nice wide roads and the opportunities available to teenagers." He was surprised when he saw the size of the campus, because it was by far the largest high school that he had ever attended.

From Sweden to Iran to Korea, the diversity of students attending PSHS was phenomenal. More than ever, new faces from across the oceans have created a new lifestyle for themselves — right here in Plano.



With many interesting stories to tell, Ghassan Ghraizi has led an adventurous life.

Skater strives

It is difficult to imagine the intensity of performing solo before a crowd of spectators or to visualize the hours of training required to accomplish an athletic fete, unless you have actually done it.

Senior Kristen Lowry has. At an early age, Kristen was introduced to the world of ice skaing.

"I used to go to the Ice Capades Chalet at Prestonwood Mall and watch the skaters. I loved it and knew that one day that was what I wanted to do," she said. "Before long, I was on the ice myself."

The world of ice skating is not always glamorous. In fact, it is tough. "You have to be dedicated. I have to skate every morning for an hour before school and at least three nights a week," said Kristen.

"Like some people jog to ease pressure, I skate," she added. "For the brief time I am on the ice nothing else matters. All I can do is concentrate on my next move. It is important to concentrate because one false move in a performance could be critical.

To further her career, Kristen plans to audition for the Ice Capades. "That's where the big names and the money are. Touring with the Ice Capades allows you to travel throughout the world and meet lots of people and get exposure at the same time," said Kristen.

for skill, success

Spice Cake draws fans

While a large percentage of students go off campus to lunch at local fast food restaurants, many students make it a point to stay at school on days when certain foods are served. When the school cafeteria serves yummy spice cake, the lunch lines get longer. This all time favorite is one of several specialties of the Food Service Department. A collective cookbook of recipes gathered through the years has the following recipe:

YUMMY SPICE CAKE

2 cups flour, 1 tsp. nutmeg, 1½ cups sugar, ½ tsp. salt, 2 whole eggs, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1 tsp. soda

Combine in mixer. Mix well 1 minute. Then beat 3 minutes.

1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup buttermilk

Add to above mixture. Beat 3 minutes. Add ½ cup chopped prunes and mix. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

BROWN SUGAR ICING

1 cup brown sugar
3 tbsps. butter
1 ⅔ cups powdered sugar

Combine brown sugar and butter in a heavy saucepan. Cook until brown sugar melts. Remove from stove. Add 2 cups of canned milk. Put back on stove. Boil for 3 minutes. Let cool 10 minutes. Beat in powdered sugar. (if too thick, add milk)

Early in the morning, Food Service employees Sue Bentler, Pat Bordon, and Phyllis Hickey check out one of their specialties — Yummy Spice Cake.

Variety of hobbies keeps teacher busy

Although Plano teachers are often cited with awards for their superior teaching skills, many have side activities and hobbies which go unnoticed.

William Phillips, the music theory coordinator, is one such teacher. After school and on weekends, Mr. Phillips can be found playing piano for country club audiences at Prestonwood, Canyon Creek, or Bent Tree. He plays a variety of music but his favorites are jazz and blues.

Mr. Phillips also raises bees on his ranch. He has more than 250,000 bees and often collects honey to sell or give away.

An avid scuba diver, Mr. Phillips spends his summers exploring sunken wrecks of forgotten ships off the coasts of Cancun and Cozumel.

Mr. Phillips believes that "all work and no play makes for a boring day."

Although music theory instructor Bill Phillips enjoys pursuing offbeat hobbies, he is serious when he sits down at the piano to play.

Teacher recognized for exceptional work

After teaching such subjects as Environmental Science, Biology I and II, and Advanced Placement Biology for years, Mrs. Barbara Hirsch received some well deserved recognition as she was presented the 1985 Advanced Placement Special Recognition Award.

Mrs. Hirsch is the first teacher at PSHS to have received the award, which is presented by the Southwest Region College Board. "It (the award) is a real big honor," she commented. Mrs. Hirsch is one of eight teachers from the four state area of the Southwest Region (which encompasses Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas) to be honored for their work in the A.P. programs.

The awards are presented according to the outline of qualifications by the College Board. These are proficiency in teaching, involvement in other A.P. programs, participant as a grader for the various A.P. exams, and membership on the national A.P. committee.

Mrs. Hirsch met all of these requirements and more. She has traveled to New Jersey and Massachusetts for consulting work, and worked on the development of A.P. courses. In addition, she has written, evaluated, and tested the process of questions on A.P. exams for validity.

An active teacher at PSHS, Mrs. Hirsch has taught A.P. Biology for nine years and is the Science Club sponsor, UIL Science adviser, and is involved with the annual Science Fair. Mrs. Hirsch enjoys teaching at the high school level, and even though she has been offered college positions, is content where she is.

Counselors schedule senior conferences

Besides being available for students to visit with, counselors had many other student related activities. Their duties throughout the school year included assisting juniors with class selections, making necessary schedule changes, and helping seniors with future plans.

The five counselors made a special effort to help seniors. They scheduled individual conferences with more than two hundred seniors and their parents. They helped seniors by discussing credits, graduation requirements, grade point averages, and rank in class. Counselors also scheduled representatives from colleges and universities for informal visits during lunch hours.

"The individual conferences proved to be a useful tool. More seniors are preparing for college earlier because of them," said counselor Cyndy Pierson.

Teachers work out in fitness program

Organized in the fall, the Plano Wellness Program was developed by PISD athletic coach Jake Swann.

More than 300 employees participated in the weekly program which promoted fitness through regular exercise. One advantage of the district-wide effort was the accessibility of the classes in the school buildings.

"We wanted to make it easy for the teachers to get involved," said Coach Swann. Participation was entirely voluntary and instructors for the activity sessions were district employees.

The main purpose for this program was to achieve a general feeling of fitness within the staff. "It's fun and it makes you feel better — when it's over," commented PSHS secretary Pat Stroh.

After classes, PISD teachers relieve their tension in an afternoon workout.

Secretary Carolyn Detwiler relaxes after selling football tickets to supportive Wildcat fans.

Year brings additional secretaries

Not only did the new school year bring new students, but also many new secretaries. Of ten secretaries working on campus, half were new to PSHS.

The need for additional aid arose from the increase in paperwork, particularly in the subschools, where several secretaries worked.

Both old and new administrative secretaries remained busy with tasks including attendance, grades, appointments, and buying supplies.

While school secretaries dealt mostly with paperwork, they spent a lot of time helping students with daily problems, too.

"Most days are really busy but working with students makes it all worthwhile," said secretary Carolyn Detwiler.

During the faculty Christmas party, secretary Pat Stroh waits while Principal Sherman Millender reads a Christmas card before opening his gift.

Receptionist Shirley Hodges answers a phone call from one of the 17 phone lines.

Assistant principal Joe Wardell patrols the teachers' parking lot where he places warning stickers on illegally parked cars.

Delta sub school principal Glenn Davis issues a new locker to junior Jeff Morse.

School operates under network of principals

Headed by one dynamic principal, PSHS was unlike most other schools in that it operated under a network of principals.

One such administrator was assistant principal Roy Lamb. A former coach and teacher, Mr. Lamb headed school discipline and was also in charge of supplying substitute teachers for the 200 plus staff.

Mr. Lamb felt the help he provided in improving student behavior was very important.

"A good behavior pattern is very important to a maturing student and should be taught early in life," he said.

The other three assistant administrators functioned as sub-school principals. Joe Wardell, Glen Davis, and Vicki Reis worked with students who were divided by three alphabetical groupings.

In addition to aiding students with last names H through M, Mr. Davis issued and maintained lockers.

Mrs. Reis was responsible not only for a group of students but also for scheduling teachers for lunch duty as well as supervising the distribution and upkeep of textbooks.

Mr. Wardell took care of campus parking and school inventory.

"I believe that the sub-school system is more effective because it gives students a chance to know their principals," said Mr. Wardell. He enjoyed the challenge of something different that comes with working with 800 separate lives.

"I can't think of anything I'd rather do than work with high school people," he said.

With the help of student aides Amy Walsh and Lynn Gillow, Mr. Roy Lamb takes care of school discipline and the scheduling of substitute teachers.

Sub school principals Joe Wardell and Vicki Reis go over announcements to be made at a Department Chairman meeting.

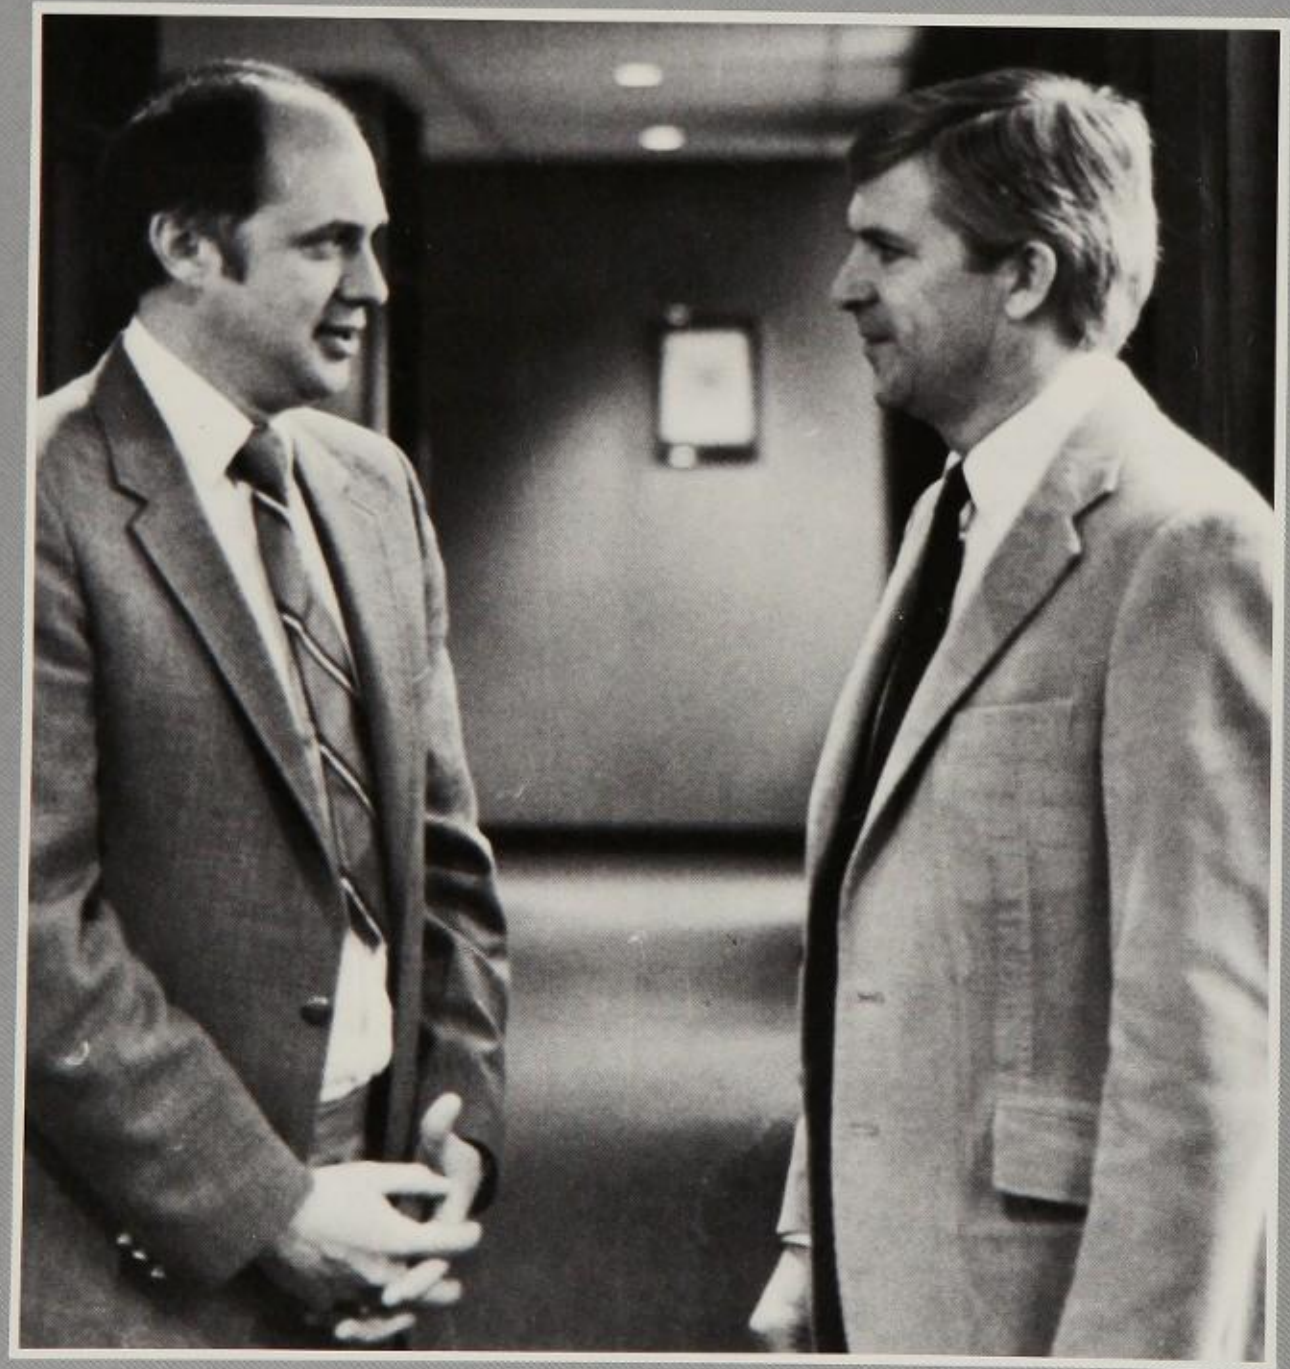
Guinn, Dean strive for quality

Associate Principal Larry Guinn and Curriculum Director Doyle Dean shared a common goal of making PSHS the best possible learning institution.

Although each had unrelated duties, both were concerned with the interests of the students. Mr. Guinn dealt with every aspect of student life outside of the classroom instruction, while Dr. Dean worked with teachers, who, he believes to be the "basis for education." Both Mr. Guinn, serving his sixth year at PSHS and Dr. Dean, who has been at the school for seven years, would not change anything about their jobs.

Mr. Guinn likes working with young people and their various questions. He felt that the most important role he played in their lives was helping their educational growth and just plain caring about them. Dr. Dean, on the other hand, believed that improving the quality of education is his most important role in the lives of students. "I believe outstanding teachers doing outstanding jobs is the key," said Dr. Dean.

Although House Bill 72 did change many aspects of school life and activities, both Guinn and Dean had mixed emotions about the changes. Mr. Guinn felt that it was a total, difficult change which could have good or bad results for students and teachers. Dr. Dean saw the change in a different aspect, saying that the biggest change was the increase in paperwork. Nevertheless, Dean and Guinn will continue working in their quest for the best. While Dr. Dean continues in his capacity at the senior high school as Curriculum Director, Mr. Guinn will become Executive Director of Student Personnel Services for the district.



With offices next door to each other, Associate Principal Larry Guinn and Curriculum Director Doyle Dean meet in the hallway before their morning schedules get underway.

With a schedule change late in the year, curriculum director Doyle Dean explains the complications that can arise to junior Lisa Penszky.

Standing in front of a collection of awards, Superintendent H. Wayne Hendrick begins his day.

Beginning his 24th year, Millender enjoys role

For Principal Sherman Millender, PISD is a way of life. He has spent 24 years in the district, the past five of which he has served as principal of PSHS.

His duties include overseeing all campus activities and budgeting, as well as working as a liason with the superintendent and central district office.

While House Bill 72 caused many changes. Mr. Millender managed to carry off the new mandates with skill and ease. This made conforming to new methods easier for everyone.

Mr. Millender feels that the most important role he plays is creating the best possible atmosphere of learning for the students. With all his responsibilities, he is still readily available to talk to faculty members and students. This is still one of his favorite pastimes.

"Having the best teachers, instructing the best students, is where it's at," he said.

Wildcats stalk their district prey

Expectations were high as the Plano Wildcats broke through the spirit banner at John Clark Field to open the 1984 season.

With 7 of 10 games scheduled for Clark's friendly confines and ranked 10th in state in preseason football polls, Plano was the overwhelming favorite to win District 12-AAAAA. The Wildcats more than met those expectations, finishing the regular season undefeated at 10-0.

In the their first game against Denton, the Wildcats broke it open early. Taking advantage of Denton's mistakes, they scored five first-half touchdowns en route to a 42-0 domination of the Broncos.

The following week, Plano recovered from a scoreless first half to pound Jesuit 31-0. The first real test for the team came against Duncanville. Plano led by a narrow 7-6 margin at halftime before scoring two more touchdowns behind senior Wally McNeely's 206 yards rushing. The 'Cats then withstood a late Panther rally to win 21-12.

Despite a rash of injuries, Plano was victorious in its first two district contests. Plano then faced another tough matchup against crosstown rival PESH. Playing on a rain-drenched Clark Field, the Wildcats converted several Panther turnovers into a Tony Cook touchdown run and a Scott Inglish field goal. They posted two more TDs and trampled the Plano East Team 23-3.

Plano's defense continued to be a dominant factor in district competition, allowing only one touchdown in two games. Against Lewisville, it was the defense that saved a district title. Tied 7-7 in the second quarter with Lewisville driving for the go-ahead score, the Wildcats' defense tightened up to stop the Farmers four times inside the 3-yard line.

In the fourth quarter, Plano led by a slim 20-14 margin. Only two minutes showed on the clock and the Farmers had the ball first-and-ten on the Plano 9. The defense held on three consecutive running plays. Then, on fourth down, a Lewisville pass fell incomplete, preserving the victory and making the Wildcats the District 12-5A champs.

The Wildcats had no trouble with a weak Greenville Lion team in the final game. Plano used a potent running attack and a trick 41-yard halfback option pass from junior Kyle Moody to Dewayne Shepherd to destroy the Lions 35-6 before a vocal homecoming crowd. Plano also extended the longest regular season winning streak in Texas to 33 games.

Talk of a state championship was once again circulating around Plano.

'Cats conquer Knights, lose to HP

The Wildcats, boasting a perfect 10-0 record, were entering the playoffs for the third consecutive year. For Plano fans entering Texas Stadium, hopefully the third would be the charm.

In the opening round of the playoffs, Plano faced a bi-district matchup against a tough Dallas Kimball team. Although Kimball finished second in their district with an 8-2 record, both of its losses were to teams in the playoffs. The Knights also featured a dangerous offense which could score quickly from anywhere on the field.

Plano met the challenge, however, as a familiar story, tough Wildcat defense, was the deciding factor in the game. The defensive unit collected six turnovers and held on a goal line stand as Plano trampled the Knights 21-8.

Plano got its first break in the first quarter as defensive end Don Hurry recovered a fumble at the 5-yard line, preventing a Kimball touchdown. Plano got another break when a Kimball returner fumbled a Scott Inglish punt. Six plays later the Wildcats scored their first touchdown on an 8-yard run by Scott Austin.

Another Kimball fumble on the ensuing kickoff resulted in more Plano points, as the Wildcats stretched their lead. Kimball engineered a 72-yard drive but failed to score three times inside Plano's one to preserve the Wildcats' 14-0 halftime lead.

In the second half, the precision punting of Inglish backed Kimball up against the goal line most of the third quarter. Early in the fourth quarter, Dewayne Shepherd intercepted a pass to set up Plano's final score.

Wally McNeely bulldozed his way into the end zone for a 24-yard TD and a 21-0 advantage. Kimball added a late touchdown and a two point conversion to avoid the shutout.

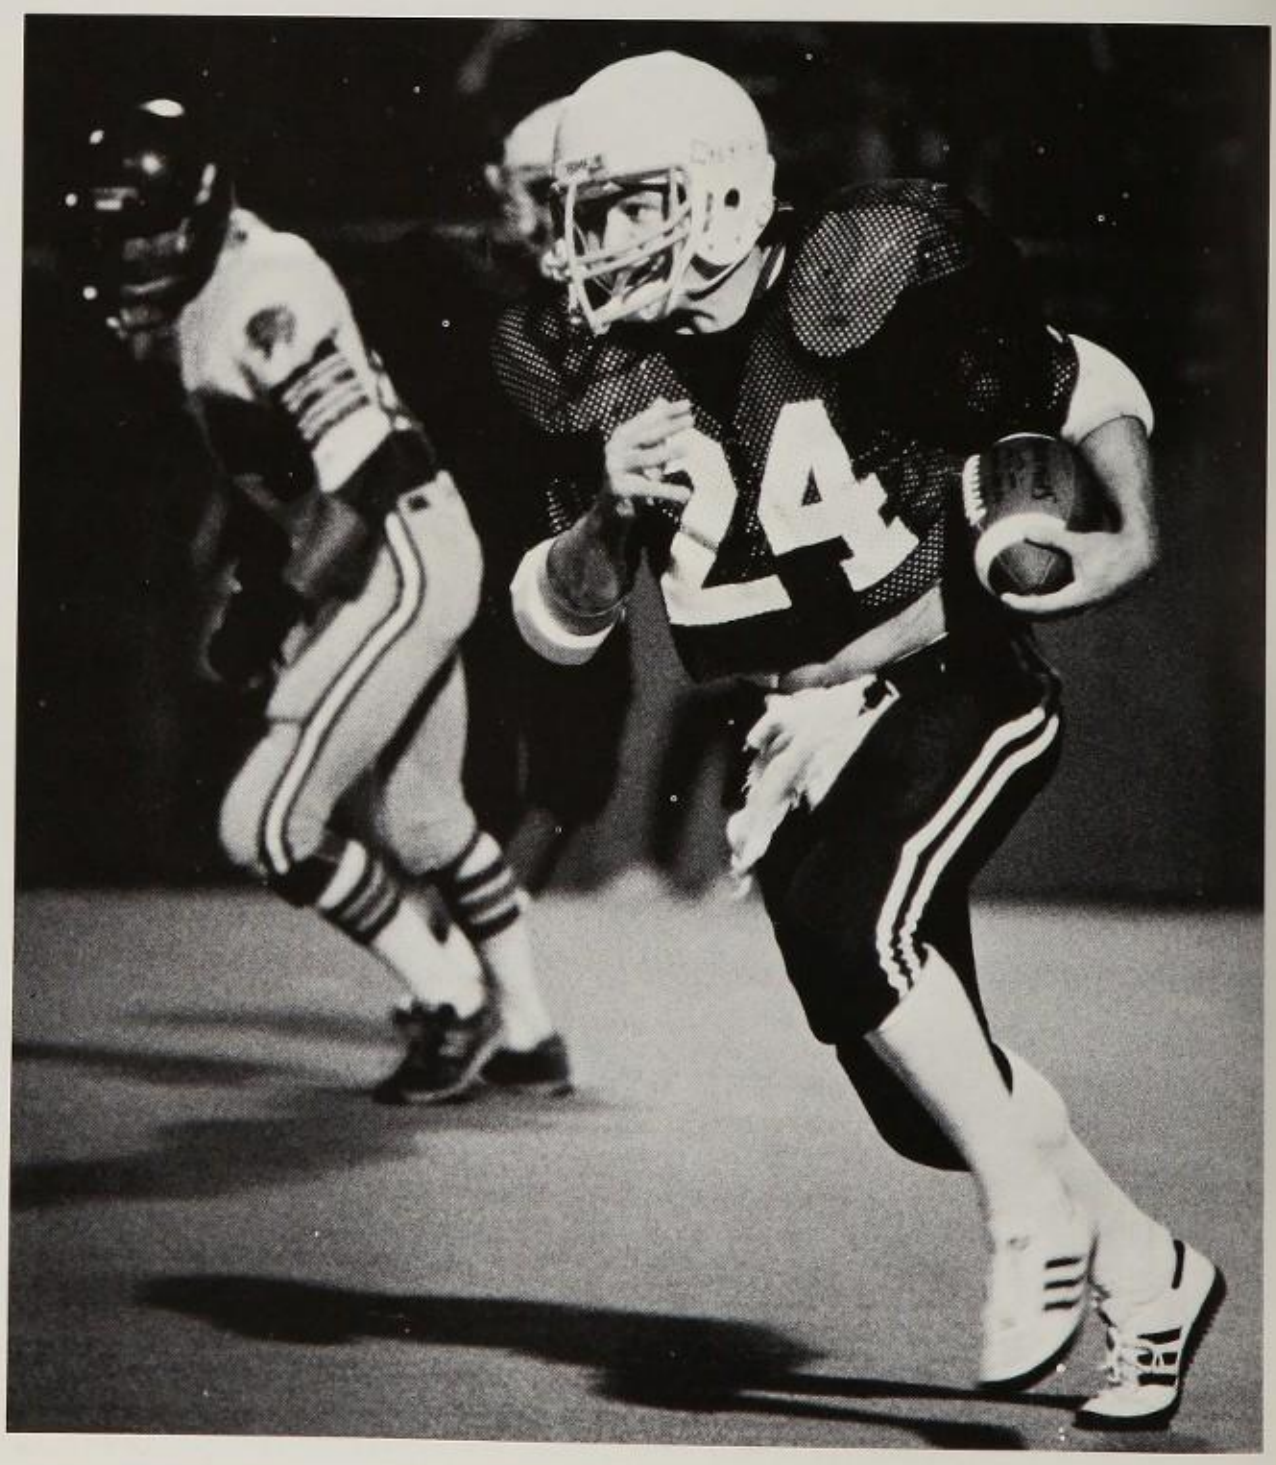
Plano's victory set up a game against longtime rival Highland Park for the area playoffs. Unlike Plano, Highland Park advanced to the playoffs on a coin flip after ending the regular season in a three way district tie.

During the first half, the Wildcat offense sputtered, threatening only once and scoring no points. The Scots scored after the opening kickoff on a plunge on fourth-and-goal at the one. Plano held the rest of the half and trailed 7-0.

Plano could not solve the Scots' tough defense as the 'Cats failed to score on their first two second half possessions. Highland Park answered by adding a field goal and a touchdown to take a commanding 17-0 lead.

It was the fourth quarter when Plano found its first offensive success. McNeely ran in from the five with 8:31 left on the clock. Inglish added the extra point to put the score at 17-7.

Plano got the ball back with four minutes left and drove to the HP 24 before they ran out of miracles. The drive stalled, leaving the final score as Highland Park 17, Plano 7 and ending the season.



Against Plano East, senior Wally McNeely searches for an opening to shoot through the line. McNeely was voted Offensive Player of the Year by the coaches in District 12-AAAAA.

Tough defense get JV team rolling

If Coach Steve Thomas had given a most valuable player award in 1984, it would have gone to the entire defense. The junior varsity football squad featured a stingy defense which surrendered an average of eight points a game. Unfortunately, the offense was also held scoreless twice as the JV 'Cats finished with a 5-2-1 record for the season.

Opening their season against Denton, the JV team managed to escape with a narrow victory, 28-27. In the next game, the offense put in its best performance of the year, scoring on 4 of its first 5 possessions on the way to a 35-6 demolition of the Jesuit Rangers. The game was highlighted by the passing combination of quarterback Darcy Dierking and tight end Tim Raines which accounted for two touchdowns.

After edging out Duncanville the following week, the JV team entered district play on a bittersweet note with a 7-7 tie against Lake Highlands. Plano got its only points on a 45-yard punt return for a touchdown by flanker Jason Jones while penalties squandered two second-half TDs and a field goal, costing Plano the win.

Penalties were once again the problem in Plano's 3-0 loss to J. J. Pearce. Penalties against the Wildcats at inopportune times were more effective at stopping Plano's offense than Pearce's defense. Plano also lost three fumbles to Pearce's none in a game played in a steady rain.

Against PESH, bad weather was one major factor in a Plano win. The game was plagued with fumbles by both sides with the big mistake coming on a missed handoff in the PESH backfield which resulted in a Wildcat touchdown. Plano added a field goal by Chris Sellars and a safety in the 12-0 shutout.

A safety in the second quarter was the only scoring by either team in the contest versus Berkner. The safety occurred when Plano punter Mike Curry mishandled the snap and was forced to fall on the ball to prevent the Rams from recovering for a touchdown. The offense never could get in gear as the JV lost 2-0.

After games against both Richardson and Lewisville were cancelled, the team finished out the season on a winning note with a 27-13 triumph over Greenville.

Surrounded by a horde of Richardson defenders, JV quarterback Darcy Dierking searches for a path of escape.

Guard Rich Thompson protects the ball from a defender while looking for an outlet pass that will eventually lead to more points on the board.

BASKETBALL

Varsity survives turbulent season

Basketball can have a very unpredictable season outcome, due to the number of games played. This was the case with this year's varsity basketball team.

For the first time in two years, some height had been restored to the team. The season looked promising in the eyes of head coach Mike Bridges, as well as most informed Plano basketball fans. The first seven games of the season proved the theory well. At the end of the Haltom/Richland Tournament, the varsity cagers boasted a record of five wins and two losses.

Unfortunately, just when things were going well, Murphey's Law entered the scene: "Anything that can go wrong will go wrong" . . . and it did. Twenty-four hours before a game with Dallas Kimball, Coach Bridges resigned. The district quickly promoted JV coach Ike Brown to the position of head coach. Plano's record took a slide to an even 5-5, but Coach Brown proved that the three losses were merely an adjustment period for the players.

On the eve of district play, Plano hosted an invitation tournament. The varsity squad won the tourney championship, pulling their record to a 9-6 and insuring recovery was in sight.

Team gains confidence with mid season surge

With preseason statistics looking good, the varsity basketball team was expected to finish in first or second place and possibly be a state playoff contender for the first time since 1982.

When problems arose early in the season, the team's record dropped to near even — 8-6. As a result, new head coach Ike Brown and his team had to work extra hard to prove that they could still compete with the top teams in the district.

To complicate matters even more, Plano lost its first two district games to Richardson, and Greenville. Intense practice after the Greenville game produced two ensuing victories against J. J. Pearce and Richardson Berkner which began to restore some confidence to the team.

Next on the schedule were the defending district champions, Lake Highlands. At the time, they were holding second place and had no problem keeping it after stunning Plano by 17 points, 69-52. Although Plano never returned the favor to Lake Highlands, they did gain wins in their next five games, one of which was a high scoring 20 point blowout, 82-62, against Lewisville.

Plano's five game winning streak had finally brought them to a tie for second place, only to drop back after losing two of their last three games. Plano finished the season on a down note after losing by three points to Plano East with a season record of 16-12.

JV finishes season near perfect

The JV basketball squad posted an outstanding record of 21-3 this season. In the eyes of the coaching staff, that means a strong varsity team for 1985-86.

The junior Wildcats jumped off to an undefeated pre-season record of 10-0. Of the 10 wins, only two teams were able to come within 10 points of Plano. Four of the games had scoring margins of 30 points or more, including a 61 point win over Shepton High School at the PESH Junior Varsity Tournament.

Beginning district play, the JV team encountered the same hardship as their varsity squad by losing the first district game to Richardson. However, Coach Mike Farish's team recovered gracefully by sweeping six straight wins, including 18 points against Greenville. Still, Plano could not shake Richardson and lost the second-round game 45-53.

The remainder of the season turned out to be an enjoyable one for the JV team. The boys won their last five games, topping off the season with a 52-45 win over Plano East.

Scores fizzle as season progresses

Momentum is an important part of the game. "A lot of it is desire, getting on the court and getting after it," stated girls varsity basketball Coach Polly McKeon. "Depth is something we had a lot of this year. We had more of a fast running game and compensated for lack in height with speed and aggressive defense."

Ending the season with a 10-18 record, the varsity girls basketball team proved the old saying, "It's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game."

"In the game of basketball, the final score is just a statistic. The important thing is playing your best. And then if you've done that, you've really won," said varsity player Cathey Upham.

The girls claimed several big victories including a 55-32 win over Paris to start their season off on the right foot. Following with a 58-35 win over Garland and a 49-35 win over Wilmer Hutchins, the girls had several big games.

There were also some close victories. The girls beat Mesquite with a score of 51-48 and squeaked by Greenville, 42-41. In one of their tight games against Richardson, the score was tied at 52 with less than a minute to play. Amy Johnson took a gamble on a great opportunity and shot from the outside. Because of this swisher, overtime was avoided.

On the JV team, Jana Dillon and Shelley Sullivan were consistent high scorers. The JV girls team had a successful season finishing it out with a record of 12-9.

"Both teams worked very hard and the girls were noticeably willing to give all of their effort to the sport," said Coach McKeon.

TRACK

Widener claims 5th in state

All the training and hard work finally paid off for junior Kim Widener. Interested in track and cross country for several years, her disciplined long hours of training enabled her to claim first place in District. With support from family and friends, Kim placed third in Regional and fifth at State.

"I didn't expect to get this far considering it is my first year," said Kim, "I have already set higher goals for my senior year!"

Meets tough for runners

It didn't seem to get any easier for the Cross Country teams as they made their way through tough competition. The overall performance by the boys varsity was disappointing due to injuries and eligibility through restrictions. The JV team had a little better season. To prove just how closely matched the district was, every team won at least one meet. Plano won the North Dallas High School meet with senior Chad Chaudhuri, in first place and junior, Will Cralle, in second. Chaudhuri finished in the top ten of every meet and was named All-District. Cralle finished seventh in the District meet and received honorable mention in All-District. Overall, the team improved on their running times.

"The runners learned that it takes a lot of hard work and dedication to be good," said Coach Roger Taylor.

The girls Cross Country team wasn't eligible to compete as a team at many meets except district due to too few participants.

"We didn't do real well as a team but we did have some good individual performances," said Coach Taylor.

Most of the girls improved their times and were very competitive. Juniors Kim Widener and Cory Vick had particularly outstanding performances during the season. Widener placed first at District, third at Regional, and fifth at State while Vick placed 15th at District out of a field of 40.

Senior Johnny Harvey puts tremendous strength behind the discus to place him second at the District meet.

Tracksters excel as individuals

Tremendously successful, the varsity boys track team was strong in both field events and distance races.

The first of the varsity's accomplishments was winning the championship at the Bishop Lynch Invitational and the Duncanville Relays. The boys followed with a second in the Grand Prairie Relays and a fourth in the Mesquite Relays. The JV team won second in both the Grand Prairie Relays and District.

At the Duncanville meet, Plano had several of their best performances and at the District Meet, field event competitors were outstanding. Among the impressive performances were senior Mike Davis' pole vault of 14'6" which tied the school record. Junior Terry Price had a shot put of 54'3", and senior Tony Cook ran a 100-meter race in 10.69 seconds and the 200 meters in 22.3 seconds. Best overall went to senior Wally McNeely for shot put — discus — 100 meters — sprint relay; junior Steve Hegg, for 100 meters — sprint relay — high jump — long jump; and junior Tony Cook, for 100 meters — 200 meters — sprint relay.

"They were a fine group of gentlemen who worked hard together to develop character, sportsmanship, and team loyalty," said Coach Steve Thomas.

Girls track team ended its season in seventh place in district and fifth place in regionals. The teams' best overall performance was at the Duncanville meet where they placed third, beaten out of second by a mere seven points.

An excellent showing was made by long jumper Shawn Palmer at District as she jumped 17'7", in state competition. Super trackstar Kim Widener won first in the mile and second in the 800 meters. Outstanding among the girls were Widener in the 800 meters — 400 meter — one mile; Palmer in the long jump — triple jump — as well as the 200 meter; teammate Monique Finney in discus; and junior Casey Coffman in the two miles.

"The girls realized after the competition of the season what it takes to have a winning team," summed up Coach Jennifer Graves.

VOLLEYBALL

Varsity volleys far from goal

While individual matches had their exciting moments, the overall volleyball season was a disappointment.

In preseason games, the girls showed improvement over last year with a record of 4-1.

"I knew that we would be competitive this year, but I also knew that every team in our district would really be tough," said Coach Kathy Shackelford.

That is just what it turned out to be, "tough." In the opening game of district, the girls fell to Lake Highlands 3-15, 12-15. The team then bounced back to shut out Pearce 15-0, 15-0. The girls went on to overtake Plano East 15-11, 15-10. Their downfall began as they lost to Berkner.

"We split games in the match as we won the second game 15-3. We went on to lose the match, but the quality of play was competitive and exciting," said Coach Shackelford.

Their only other win of the season was against Greenville. The girls' season record was 4-10.

"The varsity team realized that when they played as individuals, good points were few and far between. When they played together on the court, team unity allowed their game to 'click' resulting in good play," said Coach Shackelford.

Although the overall season was not what the girls hoped for, there were two players who were recognized for their individual skills. Senior Traci Strohl was nominated to the first All-District 12-AAAAA. Senior Amy Holmes was named second team All-District.

With only two losses, JV volleyball had the best record in the district. The girls ended the season with a record of 20-2.

"JV players learned that hard work, discipline, and team unity resulted in victory," said Coach Shackelford.

"With so many of the junior varsity players moving up to the varsity, Plano is sure to have an awesome team next year," commented junior Christine Shultz.

WRESTLING

Wrestling team takes strong hold

Determined to win, the wrestling team showed their strength in an outstanding season. Coached by Taylor Webb, the boys began the season by defeating Bishop Lynch 52-24 and Lewisville Marcus 42-31 in a triangular match. Confidence was rising and the wrestlers continued to take the district duals. Coach Webb predicted a good season with Richardson sure to be the toughest opponent.

As expected, the Richardson match turned out to be an exciting and close contest but Plano competitors overcame the competition 28-25. The wrestlers finished undefeated in district 9-0. This led them to the regional tournament in which Bobby Sutterfield, 119 lbs., Jeff York, 167 lbs., John Fuller, 176 lbs., and Zane Baird, 185 lbs. won their weight divisions. Second place winners were Sam Henderson, 112 lbs., Mike Meskunas, 132 lbs., Joe James, 138 lbs., and Craig Tinsley, 155 lbs. From here, these wrestlers went on to state.

"I thought our team had a great year! We were undefeated in dual meets and were regional runners-up. We had two boys place at the state meet. James and Fuller placed fifth," commented Coach Webb on the team's performance.

With an undefeated season, Plano's only weakness was being unqualified for the weight classes of 98 and 105 pounds. The wrestlers still considered themselves a solid team at their high peak of winning.

"The wrestlers certainly learned what it takes to win," Coach Webb said. "Our team was a close group and each boy, I think, improved himself as a person both on and off the mat."

Plano swimmers take aquatic route to state

If Coach Steve Rainey were asked what he thought of his swimmers this season, he would probably answer with praiseworthy adjectives. The swimmers proved that good teamwork and much practice brought good results.

The girl's team finished with a second place in the state tournament. The boy's team pulled to a 10th place at state. Performances of the combined teams gave Plano the third place overall position in the state of Texas.

The team that went to state also heralded the season with notable individual performances. For her continued outstanding work, Barb Neily was named Plano Senior High Swimmer of the year. Stephanie Langham, Molly Schwiezer, Barb Neily, Tiffany Spencer, and Mike Russell broke individual team speed records, while Dee Dee Smith, Barb Neily, Molly Schwiezer, and Stephanie Langham broke the 400 free style relay record.

With such a strong team, Coach Rainey could very possibly see similar results in the 1985-86 team.

Soccer team takes third

In a very competitive season, the boy's varsity soccer team finished with a third place standing and a 7-7-2 season record.

"Even though the Cats gave up seven losses, four of those were lost by a mere point," noted Coach Bob Weir. The team had its main strength defensively. The defense gave up an average of only 1.8 goals a game.

"Offensively, we were not as strong as I would have like to have been. We averaged two goals a game," explained Weir.

Two matchups between Plano and Plano East proved to be fierce contests. In the first game, Plano midfielder Michael Brown booted the game-winning score against the Panthers. In both Plano vs. Plano East games, the Cats came out with a 1-0 shutout. On the flip side of the coin, the two games against the Richardson Eagles came out identical but in this case, the Wildcats lost 1-0.

Plano varsity boys mastered Richardson Berkner in another 1-0 shutout. Junior Mark Foster provided the only goal of the game 25 minutes into the second period.

In the battle of the Wildcats, mascots for both Plano and Lake Highlands, the result was a backbreaking 3-3 tie.

In junior varsity action, the boys team had a very successful season. The Plano JV won a district title with a 10-1-2 season record. The JV's only loss was against the PESH Panthers as they blanked Plano 2-0.

Girls soccer team scores its goal

With only one returning starter at the beginning of the season, the year was going to be one of rebuilding for the varsity girls soccer team.

"Our goal was to make it to the play-offs, and we accomplished that goal," said Coach Diane Davey.

Indeed they did. The girls finished their season as bi-district runners up after being named district champs.

It was in an early non-district game that the girls tore through Dallas Kimball 3-2 and center forward Cindy Castaldo managed to find the Kimball weakness to score four times. It seemed like a lot of the games were to be last-minute tension builders. Against Plano East, the girls scored the single winning goal with only 12 minutes left in the game. It was junior Nancy Brevig who made the long shot to the net.

While the girls lost the game to Richardson, it was one of their most exciting district games. Plano held the lead 1-0 for the first half and most of the second. With only four minutes remaining, the Eagles scored twice to ice the victory cake.

"The varsity soccer team built a winning attitude and developed confidence in each others' playing ability," said Coach Davey.

In junior varsity action, the girls took the District 12AAAAA title. In an amazing season, the team earned a 10-1 record. The girls scored a grand total of 51 goals and only allowed seven goals to be scored against them.

"With the strength shown by this year's JV team, we are looking forward to a strong 1985-86 season," noted Coach Davey.

Court order suspends state playoff games

When Plano's baseball team entered the playoffs, they anticipated a rough road to state, but nobody ever dreamed the playoffs would be suspended in the middle of a series. Unfortunately, that's exactly what happened. After the first game of Plano's second playoff series, a court-ordered injunction against two Houston area schools stopped the playoffs abruptly. The schools had let failing students participate in the playoffs, which was a direct violation of Texas House Bill 72. Immediately, the schools challenged the no-pass, no-play rule in district court, where they won. The district attorney then appealed to the Texas State Supreme Court, where the decision was reversed, allowing the playoffs to resume.

Outside of a bizarre end, Plano baseball experienced a very normal and thriving season. In preseason play, Plano started with a tied game to Denison, and won three out of the five other preseason games. In the first district game of the year, Plano dealt a 14-1 blowout to Lake Highlands, followed by seven more victories before falling 1-6 at Lake Highlands in second-round revenge. For the rest of district play, Plano only lost one more game, which clenched the district championship for them.

In the first round of playoffs, Plano won two out of three games to W. T. White. From there, the Wildcats entered a series with North Garland, where they lost the first game. After a two week interruption in the playoffs, Plano resumed action only to lose a second game to North Garland which ended an unusual, but memorable season.

Run rule decides many JV games

With a 16-2 overall record, the junior varsity baseball team was pleased with more than just some explosive games.

Much of the excitement came from close games which challenged the entire team. "We have been beating people by the run rule (when a team leads by 10 points, the game is stopped) and this is the first time in quite a while that we've had to play seven full innings," said Coach Gerald Brence after a narrow 7-6 scrape against Berkner. Out of Plano's 18 games, only eight were decided by a full seven innings.

Early in the season, Plano entered the Carrollton Newman Smith Junior Varsity Tournament, where the team had no problem sweeping three games to clench the tournament championship. Upon entering play, Plano lost the first two games, but then won every game thereafter. Included in the district wins were shutouts to Plano East, Clark, R. L. Turner, Shepton, Richardson, and Greenville.

Plano junior varsity baseball produced what might be considered a well rounded season. The players experienced the thrill of big wins, but at the same time also learned to appreciate those wins by having some close calls and two losses.

Tennis

Team goes 8-4 in season

In a tough district season, the tennis team lacked valuable experience to overcome the strength of its opponents. The team did manage to place fourth in district in the fall.

"I knew it was going to be difficult coming into the season. We lacked some key team positions that kept us away from the championship," said Coach Martin Berryman.

All along, the team to beat was Richardson High who finished second in regionals after beating all the teams in district.

Richardson had a lot of ranked players. I was surprised and pleased that we played them so closely. Matter of fact, with a couple of breaks, we could have beaten them," said Coach Berryman.

Everyone who read "The Dallas Morning News" or "The Dallas Times Herald" heard about junior tennis player Jennifer Santrock. She was Plano's strongest competitor, and placed first in girls singles in the 12-AAAAA State Meet. At state, Santrock came back strong after a first set loss, 3-6, to win the match with back-to-back wins 7-6, 6-4. There were two consistent surprises on the team — Joey Miles and Brad Bradham. Also, Shane Foster possessed a leathal serve and overhand.

"Teamwise, the best skill that we learned was to play fundamentally sound doubles," said Coach Berryman. "All in all, it was the good spirit that counted."

Santrock claims title at state

In May, junior Jennifer Santrock captured the Class AAAAA girl's single state championship in Austin. It came as no surprise to her confident friends and fans who knew she had been featured in "The Dallas Morning News," "The Dallas Times Herald," and even "Seventeen" Magazine as an outstanding young tennis player.

Jennifer progressed to state by winning at the District-AAAAA and Region II levels. In the state finals she seized her tennis title by defeating Cindy Crawford from Corpus Christi in split sets. Cindy won the first set 6-3, but Jennifer came back to win the second and last sets, 7-6, 6-4.

"I was really excited about winning state, but I didn't feel like I played as well in the finals as in other games I have played," remarked Jennifer after capturing the coveted title.

GOLF

Golf team makes par for course

Opening their season in February at the Tanglewood Invitational, Plano golfers putted their way to a third place finish. Lead scorers were seniors Allan McDonald with rounds of 78 and 70 and Rocky Montanio with an 80 and 71.

Next, at the Denton meet, the eight-member varsity golf team shot a combined round of 291.

At the Paris Invitational, on March 22, the Wildcats took fifth place. The last invitational was held at Brookhaven Country Club in Dallas during April. The golfers finished in fifth place.

"The team really improved over the season. One important achievement was the ability to hit the golf ball long in the fairway. Also as the team gained strength, it made a great difference in the scores," said Coach Jay Stevens.

Even though the team was made up of only guys, girls were also eligible. The varsity golf team included seniors Kevin Dial, Jason Koch, Allan McDonald, Rocky Montanio, Ronnie Rodgers, Danny Shapiro, and juniors Erid Bauder and Mike Hibbison.

Advanced classes help students get head start

More than 500 juniors and seniors got a head start on college level work as they took Advanced Placement courses.

The purpose of AP courses was to prepare students to take college placement examinations — which if scored well upon, allowed the student to receive college credit without actually taking the course in college. Last year, nerly 70 percent of Plano's AP students placed out of approximately 1,929 college hours.

Advanced Placement courses were offered in biology, chemistry, computer science, English, European and American history, calculus, physics, and studio art. In May, students who paid the $49 fee took examinations with hopes of placing out of several college hours.

The enrollment in Advanced Placement classes continued to increase during the 1984-85 school year. PSHS was honored by the College Board as one of three outstanding high schools in the southwest.

Student Council works to improve campus life

Whether it meant raising school spirit, beautifying the campus, or simply helping a student with a problem, Delta Student Council became involved in student life at PSHS.

In addition to decorating the cafeteria for homecoming, members of Delta Student Council sponsored a newcomer's party and sold "Class of '85 and '86" buttons.

During February, members helped Gamma Student Council with its annual blood drive. In an effort to raise money to develop an area of land for Project P.A.W., a landscape project, Delta Council members sold ice cream in April. Painting the campus media boards was another spring project designed to improve PSHs Grounds.

We try to help make our school a place for students to enjoy their high school years while getting a good education.

Beta Student Council also became involved in Project P.A.W. The campus was divided into sections and each section was assigned to an organization. In the spring, Beta Council members contributed to the grounds by planting trees on assigned plots of land.

Other activities sponsored by the Beta Student Council included bake sales, decorating for homecoming, a newcomer's party, and selling kazoos during basketball season.

At a Delta Student Council meeting, members J. P. Kenney and Johnny Lathrop contribute to the discussion.

Clubs committed to improvement

Joining the other student councils to plan homecoming, Gamma members decorated the cafeteria for the Saturday night dance. They also organized a newcomer's party for new students as well as foreign exchange students. To raise money for a trophy case, Gamma sold a popular item — pocket calendars.

One of the most supported projects on campus, the annual Blood Drive, was sponsored by Gamma Student Council. PSHS created a blood bank which could be drawn from by Plano citizens.

Organizing the half-time activities for homecoming, which included the annual maroon and white balloon contest was only one of the activities sponsored by Student Senate. A sign contest designed to raise spirit for the PSHS vs. PESH football game, a Christmas dance, and a Teacher's Appreciation Breakfast were among Senate sponsored events. During a joint dinner with PESH, both school senates agreed to split the cost of goal-post pads for Clark Field.

Cheer leaders pep up pep rallies

Clinching the Sweepstakes Award at the Mavericks Competition was only one award that was won by the varsity cheerleaders this season.

Spending a week at the NCA camp and many long hours of work were needed to prepare the junior varsity and varisty cheerleaders for the year which included their primary duty of supporting the 18 on-campus athletic teams.

"Being a cheerleader is hard work! It requires a lot of dedication and a love for your school. It is fun and rewarding to take part in each team's victories," commented cheerleading sponsor Cyndi Rosenbaum.

During the year, the cheerleaders hosted a competition with the All American Cheerleading Organization. The varsity and junior varsity teams combined and did very well.

With the help of the white guards and mascot Brian Eddy, banners were made, the gym was decorated, and the feeling of school spirit filled the halls.

The girls also sold key chains, ribbons, Wildcat flags, and megaphones. These were sold to help raise money to suport each team. The standing room only crowds in the gym on pep rally Fridays, in the stadium of the football fields, and the stands beside the baseball diamond proved that they had accomplished their goal.

At the All-American Cheerleading Competition, senior Kristi Vance was named Miss Plano Varsity Cheerleader, and junior Connie Ruggeri was named Miss Plano Junior Varsity.

Planoettes work through changes

New rules and a new sponsor were introduced to the Planoettes in August. Miss Beth Freeman, previously a drill team assistant at Lake Highlands, joined the Plano staff as the new Planoette sponsor. House Bill 72 also affected the Planoettes by restricting their practice time to only eight hours per week. During the summer, however, the girls were able to practice 15 hours weekly.

The long hours paid off when, at summer camp in Kilgore, the Planoettes returned home with the sweepstakes award. The honor was a first division rating for jazz, high kick and novelty. The drill team also brought home the spirit pom-pon for the fourth consecutive year.

Key Club provides community service

"The basic idea of Key Club is to give of yourself, to help those who are less fortunate and, in turn, better ourselves by learning what it is to give and care about others," said Key Club President Kyle Walls.

Through their activities, Key Club members proved to live by this statement. To benefit the Plano Heritage Society, members helped in the Plano Balloon Festival. In October, Key Club sponsored a haunted house with proceeds going to the March of Dimes and the Muscular Dystrophy Association. To raise money for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Key Club members participated in the Reunion Run Marathon. They also worked with People United to Serve Humanity and the Volunteer Connection in delivering food and presents to needy families. In one of their biggest events of the year, the annual Superdance, the group boasted 150 participants who danced for 16 hours to raise money for the benefit of "Jerry's Kids."

The busy Key Club members also found time to attend the International Convention in St. Louis.

"...Key Club is to give of yourself, to help those who are less fortunate and in turn better ourselves by learning what it is to give and care about others."

Kyle Walls
President

Another group that dealt with helping others was Students Working All Together, simply known as SWAT. The group of students that made up the SWAT team were really not a club, but a select group of students with a common interest. "They just help others on a one-to-one basis without publicizing it," noted Associate Principal Larry Guinn. The prime target of SWAT members was new students. They helped to acquaint new students with the campus, assisted anyone who experienced adjustment problems, and were a friend to others in times of need.

Future leaders play politics

Teenage Republicans began its first year on campus. The club was an affiliate of the national TARS headquarters which provided movies, pamphlets, and books free of charge for club activities. The Plano chapter was featured in a spring issue of the national newsletter published by TARS. Members also viewed two Republican topic films.

Young Democrats, also in its first year, held a number of meetings to discuss the future of the country and the Democratic Party as well as current events and foreign affairs. Members saw the espionage film, "The Falcon and the Snowman" and spent hours discussing the implications of the film. However, members cited their major achievement as the Trivial Pursuit victory over the Teenage Republicans, three games out of four.

Public Affairs Club members concentrated on research and planning for the district and state mock trial competition. In contest, four members placed in state: Tim Davidson — Attorney, Carol Werner — Attorney, Randy Jackson — Youth Commissioner, and James Quach — Editor. The four then advanced to national competition in North Carolina during the summer. PAC members were also involved in a Youth and Government program and had guest speakers at meetings.

Club engages in trivial pursuits

"Whiz Quiz is a quick response evaluation of all areas of knowledge between two 4-person teams," explained sponsor Beth Stewart. To practice for competitions, Whiz Quiz members met four times a week, asking trivia questions and practicing with a buzzer system to improve reflexes. The club also scrimmaged Skyline and members of the PSHS faculty.

In actual competition, Whiz Quiz excelled, advancing teams to both the City Championships and the District Championships. The city team also held a scrimmage against local politicians in the spring.

"With the passage of the new NHS constitution this past year, the Honor Society may well become an organization which is more active in a broader range of activities, leaving behind the image of a club which is solely academically-oriented."

National Honor Society began the year by running a concession stand at football games and selling ornaments at Christmas. The club also sponsored a canned food drive for the needy at Christmas. Later in the year, NHS held an Easter egg hunt for underprivileged children and engaged in a campus beautification program. In April, NHS inducted 80 new members and held a reception for them following the ceremony.

Computer Club members worked to improve their programming skills. Members took a tour of the computer facilities at Electronic Data Systems and attended a computer fair in which local merchants and businessmen gathered together to exchange information about the latest technologies. Computer Club also took part in computer programming contests in the fall and in the spring. The club held a computer video games contest.

Clubs seek foreign enrichment

With one goal in mind, German Club activities were aimed toward students experiencing German culture outside of the classroom. Off to an early start, German Club members participated in Novemberfest, competing in several categories ranging from grammar to German poetry. Twenty-five students qualified for state competition in Austin during April. German Club members celebrated Christmas with a caroling party and attended Sprachfest in San Marcos. In March, 23 students and two teachers from Germany spent five weeks in Plano. Each German Club member housed at least one foreign student during this time. In turn, the German American Partnership Project sponsored 20 Plano students in German schools in the summer.

"This is a once in a lifetime opportunity, not only do we have a chance to share our culture with the Germans, but we will be able to experience life in a German school firsthand," said club sponsor Beth Stewart. Delta Epsilon Phi became the first chartered German Honor Society at PSHS. The initiation was held at the school on March 4.

French Club concentrated most of its efforts on exploring French culture. The semester began with a get-acquainted party in September, followed by a trip to UTD to see "Infidelities," a lesser known comedy by French playwright Moliere. The Christmas holidays were capped off with a caroling party around many west Plano homes.

In January, the French Club went to see "Children of Paradise," a French film presented by the UTD film society. Also the traditional "Fete des Rois" holiday was celebrated in January, in which a small plastic figure baked into a cake determined who would be the "Rois" (king) for the new year. In March, the club held its annual French breakfast, complete with croissants and French bread, and participated in NTSU's regional competition, the Fete Francaise. Finally, to end the year with style, the French Club held its annual banquet.

Club unites foreign students

New at the campus, International Club's first priority was to associate students from different countries with students who live in the United States. Members held special parties, collected for UNICEF and sold calendars.

To attract new members, Latin Club held fall and Christmas parties. Members attended the regional competition in Denton and claimed fifth in the sweepstakes in the lower division at the state level. Club members also participated in intramural softball.

To celebrate the Christmas season, Spanish Club contributed food for the needy. Members also decorated eggs, which were displayed in the cafeteria at Easter. The club participated in Project PAW and ended the year with a spring party.

Juniors Karyn Ader and Todd Davis discuss the Spanish contest results.

Journalists display write stuff

A new computer added another dimension to the Journalism Department. The Compugraphic MD 5000 allowed students to select type styles, set type, and layout the newspaper in column form to go to the printer camera ready. The computer saved time and added to the skills learned by journalism students. Journalism Major Studies students produced 10 issues of The Wildcat Tales.

Journalism students also excelled in UIL competitions. In the Area Invitational in February, 7 of 12 students placed as winners in categories such as feature writing, editorial writing, news writing, and headlines. Journalism also placed three people in UIL District. At regionals, junior Kelly Womer placed first in news writing.

In the fall, the Planonian yearbook staff reported the highest sales ever, with 1400 books sold in three days. The increased sales enabled the staff to incorporate more color and special effects.

Planonian — "A Classic" was chosen as the theme for the book.

"With the passage of House Bill 72 a major concern, the Planonian staff tried to remain objective. The theme was chosen to emphasize that everything at PSHS was equally important," said coeditors Mike and Tim Corum. "The theme parallels academics with extracurricular activity instead of placing emphasis on one or the other. The theme also coordinated with the school's 10th anniversary."

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Bill Borowicz, first year journalism students compiled the sixth edition of the literary magazine, "Esprit." The magazine contained a variety of student work including poetry, essays, short stories, and sketches.

At the end of the year, journalism teacher Joyce Levy retired to ranch life after 10 years of service at the senior high.

Choir highlighted by top ratings

Building D halls were filled with music as members of the Choir Department, led by director Steve Garms, rehearsed songs. The group first performed at an open house for parents in October. For the holiday season, Chorale joined Concert Choir in a concert of Pinkham's "Christmas Contata."

Choir students Laney Todd and Lisa Braxton were named to the Texas Music Education Association's All-State Choir. They traveled to San Antonio in February to perform as part of the TMEA convention. In addition, five other students were named to All-Region Choir, and 10 students received awards at the Solo/Ensemble Contest.

Music Corporation, the department's pop group, performed at various civic and community functions. The group displayed their talents in a spring show and recorded an album entitled "Stand By."

In UIL competition, Chorale received the sweepstakes trophy while Concert Choir received an "excellent" rating. Both choirs received "excellent" ratings at the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi in May.

The Choir Department wrapped up its year by hosting a banquet and performing at the Baccalaureate service.

Band keeps up with busy schedule

While Wildcat Band is traditionally one of the largest groups on campus, many friendships were made since group practice demanded so much of everyone's time.

The brass section of band concentrates as it rehearses for a UIL concert.

Preparing for the fall marching season, practices began in the summer. Members spent many long hours practicing new formations and routines. Although band spent most of their time in the fall preparing for football games the musicians still found time to compete in the UIL Marching band contest where they made a First Division.

In the spring, the band attended the UIL concert and sight reading competition where they received a First Division, qualifying them for Sweepstakes.

To raise funds for a band trip to Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi, members sold magazine subscriptions, helped take inventories, and sold tickets for a mid-winter concert. In Corpus Christi, the band received a first place award. In the summer, the band hosted a Doc Severinson concert.

During their busy performance schedule, stage band members spend long hours practicing in the Building D Lab.

Music competitions heighten skills

Performing modern and traditional jazz, rock, and blues, the stage band concentrated on playing concerts as much as possible during the year.

Stage band director Al Corley organized the bands' calendar to allow for playing a lot of music and performing it often. Appearances included lunchtime concerts inside during the winter and outside when the weather got better. Under new direction, the band did not compete in contests, but plans were in order to enter jazz festivals and UIL contests during the 1985-86 school year.

Together with students from Shepton High School, the orchestra traveled to Corpus Christi to compete in the Buccaneer Music Festival where they won a Superior Division rating. Earlier in the year, orchestra members competed in the UIL concert and sight-reading contest in Richardson where they received a first division in concert. At Christmas, orchestra students from Vines, Shepton, and Plano combined with band members from Vines and Plano to perform two concerts, one in the theatre and one at Collin Creek Mall.

The Music Theory Club, sponsored by Mr. Bill Philips, was designed for students interested in music and its structure. Students studied fundamental rhythms, basic terms, and chord progressions. Once the skills were mastered, the students concentrated on writing a piece of music, some of which were sight read by the stage band.

Theatre captures third at state UIL

"The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the Moon Marigolds" and "Count Dracula" were the two major performances produced this year by the Theatre Department.

"Count Dracula," starring senior Tom Petracelli, was performed as a midnight show in late October.

The Theatre Department participated in a statewide UIL One-Act play competition with the play "Find Me." Competition began during March at Richardson and ended with state held at Austin. Plano returned home as second runner-up at the state level. Senior Nason Throgmorton was awarded the honor of Best Actor.

"It has been a wonderful year. We had a great group of very talented kids to work with," said Director Ida Wellsman.

The Speech Team competed in 15 tournaments this year and was awarded a "Most Outstanding School" at a majority of the tournament. The PSHS speech team competed against more than 200 southwestern schools from Oklahoma to Louisiana.

As members of The National Forensic League, the squad won more than 200 individual awards and qualified for 28 entries at the Texas Forensic Association State Tournament.

An outstanding year came to a close as three of five UIL competitors placed in state speech competition. This marked the first time for so many Plano speech students to win top UIL prizes.

Art students focus on careers

In their Building B studio, approximately 25 Commercial Art VICA students screened 700 t-shirts, 1,400 posters, 1,300 bumper stickers, and 500 window decals for school organizations.

Commercial Art VICA students used their talents as they worked toward developing a career. First year students learned basic skills and how to discipline themselves to meet deadlines. Second year projects were related to work on a professional basis. Projects like advertising layouts were undertaken for customers outside school. The group also held contests within the class to pick the best designs for business use.

The Art Club started off the year by being recognized as a new chapter of the National Art Honor Society. With the help of sponsor Amy Maddox, the art students sponsored an exhibit at D'art. The members also enjoyed field trips to area museums.

Service clubs emerge on campus

Project LEAD — shortened from Leadership, Experience, and Development — fulfilled many of its goals in its first year on campus.

One of its three major projects entailed making decorations and valentines for the senior citizens at the Heritage Manor Nursing Home. LEAD volunteers also organized a program for latchkey children and planned biweekly activities for them.

The group's most important activity was putting on the Very Special Arts Festival for handicapped children. The endeavor was a national program sponsored by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

During National Drug Awareness Week, SADD members, (Students Against Drunk Driving) distributed posters and literature to students. In January, Middlekauf Ford sponsored a fundraiser at which junior Missy Riepe grabbed more than $200 in floating cash from "The Incredible Money Machine." Club president James Nash delivered a speech on drunk driving to the crowd. SADD sponsored a candy sale and car wash to raise funds for a graduation party at Southfork.

Youth Against Cancer, another new group, raised nearly $2,000 for The American Cancer Society. The group sponsored the Great American Smoke Out to encourage students to stop smoking for a day. YAC students participated in Project PAW (Pride at Work), and helped to beautify the school campus in a landscape project. YAC members attended the Youth Against Cancer conference in June in San Antonio.

Corps reinforces leadership skills

Along with providing security for the Planoettes at all football games, ROTC participated in six drill and rifle meets.

During the year, the Rifle Team received four team awards, and the Women's Drill Team won nine team trophies. Junior Jennifer Steele was selected the Best Commander at two drill meets.

"The strong point of the group was teamwork. The students worked very well together all year to accomplish their goals and objectives," said Major-Sergeant James Morse.

ROTC joined forces to highlight their social season with a Military Ball in the spring. Junior Jackie King was named ROTC sweetheart at the annual event.

FFA members participate in livestock contests

Future Farmers of America began their busy year in the summer when they attended the state convention in Lubbock. Members Hal Hubert, David Kimbrough, and Shannon Mashburn received the honor of being named Lone Star Farmers.

FFA's fall activities included showing cattle at the Texas State Fair. The group also competed in livestock shows in places such as Wylie and Houston and attended banquets where they received awards and recognition.

"As it is set up, FFA is diversified enough so that there is something of interest for everyone. There are aspects of FFA that a person uses throughout life, regardless of his or her career choice."

Attention focuses on new styles

Wild new hairstyles caused a boom to the customers aspect of cosmetology. The two-hour lab provided time for VICA students to practice their newly learned styling techniques on both men and women.

"Every haircut comes from basics, so we learn that first," said sponsor Kay Daniel.

To fund their travel expenses to VICA contests, cosmetology students sold candy. The spring fashion show was only one of the many activities of Fashion Design Etc. Members created their own line of clothing as a major project.

Due to House Bill 72, field trips were kept to a minimum, yet some members did attend the Neiman Marcus Fortnight and traveled to the Dallas Apparel Mart.

". . . the show also gives the fashion design students the opportunity to plan and organize their own show."

FHA clubs serve needy

Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) FHA and HERO participated in area and state workshops. At Christmas, HECE assisted a family whose house had been destroyed by fire.

Through related programs, HECE students helped underprivileged children.

FHA Consumer Clubs sponsored the school's Great American Smokeout in which smokers were encouraged to not smoke for a day. The club also participated in a citywide car wash and attended the area and state FHA-HERO conference.

Club stresses 'physics is phun'

Promoting interest in physics and providing social interaction was a main concern for Society of Physics members. The group had a special viewing of a science fiction film, a guest speaker from NASA, and discovered the "Physics of Six Flags." The group also participated in the state Physics Olympics where they placed eighth. "Physics is Phun" became their motto.

Science Club also provided outside activities. A trip to Galveston allowed time for a camp-out while cleaning the beaches. Members also toured UT Medical School and the A & M University science area, as well as took field trips to the Ft. Worth Zoo, the Omni Theater, and Six Flags over Texas. In addition to raising money for their trips by working in concession stands, Science Club members held regular meetings and special programs on campus.

Living Materials Director Jim Dunlap set up shop in new quarters in Building B — giving PSHS a larger facility for its zoo. Knowledgeable about most animals, Mr. Dunlap not only taught students but provided a place for a living center where students could become acquainted with a variety of animal species. From possums to iguanas, there was some creature for everyone to marvel at as they visited in this popular lab.

Community supported by students

Developing leadership qualities and providing community involvement for students interested in health care were the main objectives of the Health Occupations Students of America.

Members attended conferences in Florida and various cities throughout Texas as well as participated in the Plano General Health Fair. In area and national contest categories, HOSA students competed in dental and medical spelling, extemporaneous essay, medical assistant, and veterinarian assistant.

A new organization, Spirit Club, was formed to support the boys basketball team. In addition to attending games as a group, members ran the concession stand, baked desserts, and decorated the players' lockers. Spirit Club members also held a food drive and presented the benefits to a community service project, P.U.S.H.

Both Girls and Boys Fellowship of Christian Athlete groups met each month at a member's house. Members also met with students from other schools for rallies and attended athletic events. They helped organize the F.C.A. Day of Champions for middle schools, planned a program for the Hillcrest Manor Nursing Home, and took children to the zoo. In addition to several retreats, F.C.A. met twice a month for programs, guest speakers, films, Bible studies, and discussion.

FTA student selected district X president

From electing a new Future Teachers of America district president to being recognized as the outstanding chapter in District X, this year's FTA was involved with advancing their career goals. To accomplish this, members raised money during Homecoming Week by selling Wildcat suckers. The money also helped to establish scholarships for FTA members. During American Education Week, FTAers served breakfast for the faculty and put "happy little notes" in teacher boxes.

Office Education Association was another career-oriented club which furthered the academic prowess of students. Thirty-two students attended district competition at East Texas State University where 16 Plano competitors took awards. Five advanced to state finals in Austin.

In April, OEA held an employee /employer luncheon to thank those businessmen in the community who hired Plano OEA students during the school year. Senior Gretchen Reynolds was awarded the Lori Wensel Award at the luncheon.

Students who were active participants in Future Business Leaders of America had an opportunity to develop leadership skills and gain confidence in themselves. FBLA helped them to improve their abilities in business subjects and to make new friends.

Selling candy was the main fundraiser that sent FBLA students to the District Leadership Conference in Grand Prairie during the Fall semester.

Attending district and state FBLA competitions were ways that members demonstrated their newly acquired business skills and promoted their school at the same time.

Vocational clubs work for future

Three work programs provided students with on-the-job training in potential career interests.

Members of Distributive Education (DECA) had a busy year keeping up with in-school classes and working too. DE students did manage to find time to host a Christmas luncheon for 1500 people including their employers. In competition, DE sent 11 students to state and senior Lynn Kutney advanced to nationals which will take place during the summer in California. Her event was General Merchandise Writing.

Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas (VOCT) won six awards at district contest. Two students, Rel Burks and Stacey Jaynes went on to take first at state. In addition, VOCT students also participated in a District Leadership Conference in Tyler.

Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) aided students in learning skills to apply to future careers. Students attended an area contest and seniors Kirk Ford and Pat Arnold placed at state. At the end of the year, members showed their appreciation for their employers by giving them certificates.

VICA students gain trade skills

Industrial Electronics VICA emphasized developing skills through laboratory experiences. Members competed in speed, job interviews, skill activities, and project displays at district and regional levels. In state competition senior Dean Huntley won first place in Technical Information while classmate Granville Alpha took first place for job display. Industrial Electronics students also participated in VICA Week by setting up a display at Collin Creek Mall.

Helping out the booming Plano housing industry, Building Trades VICA continued their annual project of constructing a three-bedroom, two-bath house in West Plano. An open house was held in May to show off the completed house. Profits from the sale of the house will be used to continue the project next year.

Drafting VICA students gained exposure to the architectural field by drawing up the floor plans for the Building Trades house. The 23-member group was also encouraged to participate in district VICA contests.

Air Conditioning and Refrigeration VICA students were given a chance to learn the installation, repair and maintenance of heating and cooling devices in residential, automotive, and commercial applications.

As a special project, Air Conditioning VICA students installed a heating and cooling system in the Building Trades house. They also undertook in-school repairs of automotive air conditioning systems. Throughout the year, students worked on their classroom to add a comfort control system.

Auto Mechanics VICA provided students with marketable skills which would enable them to get a job in auto repair. Students participated in both district and state vocational contests. Senior Mike Heiting placed first in the Auto Electrician category at both meets and junior James Lewis placed first in Auto Mechanics at the vocational district meet.

Students enrolled in Auto Paint and Body VICA were given the opportunity to learn skills to obtain a job in the auto repair trade. They participated in local and state competitions at which they won awards. The goal for the year was to make sure that everyone involved in the program got something out of it, even if it just enabled them to restore the paint and body of their own autos.

Twelve seniors recognized for Who's Who

As a senior honor student, GAIL LYNN MEYER involved herself in a variety of academically related activities. She served as president of National Honor Society and competed in speech and debate. She won many honors. Other organizations that she was active in included Science Club, Computer Club, Teenage Republicans, and intramural softball.

Active in many organizations, senior MIKE HULBERT kept up an A average throughout high school. Speech and debate were two of his main interests. He competed in the Texas Forensic Association state debate competition and the UIL state debate competition. He was also named Plano's most outstanding debator. Other honors included National Merit commendation and the Engineers Club of Dallas Excellence Award. Mike was a member of the Society of Physics students, Social Studies A-Team, Science Club, and National Honor Society.

Through her charity work, MICHELLE LONCAR remained active in the community as well as in school. Her involvement included participation in the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-A-Thon, the Cystic Fibrosis Climb-A-Thon, The Gamma Student Council Blood Drive, and as a candy-striper at Plano General Hospital. On campus, Michelle was in student government. She was an officer in the student Senate and served as president of Delta Student Council. As a senior, Michelle was a member of Planoettes, Key Club, Students Against Drunk Driving, and was a Beauty finalist.

Academically oriented, senior KALPANA SHANKAR was active in French Club, Physics Club, Science Club, Math A-Team, Debate Team, National Honor Society, Academic Decathlon, and Students Working All Together. As a selected member of Academic Decathlon, she won first place in science, first in literature/grammar, and second in speech competition. She also received awards in French, math and science competitions. One of Kalpana's greatest honors was being named a National Merit Finalist.

Who's Who

Brad Hairston

Denise Urzendowski

Jerry Madden

Outstanding seniors receive recognition

Involvement meant a lot to BRAD HAIRSTON during his high school years. Serving as Senior Class President enabled him to get in close touch with the school and the student body. Despite a busy academic schedule of AP classes, Brad remained active in Science Club, Students Working All Together, Students Against Drunk Driving, and National Honor Society. To top it off, Brad kept a straight "A" average throughout high school.

Daniel Plunkett

Aside from taking three advanced placement courses of English, European History, and United States History, senior DENISE URZENDOWSKI was active in speech and debate. In her junior year, Denise accumulated more than 15 trophies in speech competition and qualified for the Texas Forensic Association State Tournament. In informative speaking, she placed first at UIL State. She also won first place at the National Forensic League district competition and obtained the N.F.L. Degree of Special Distinction — the highest degree offered, and advanced to nationals. As a senior, Denise continued to distinguish herself in speech as she won more than 20 trophies and qualified for the Texas Forensic Association state tournament; winning fourth place in girls extemp. Again in UIL competition, Denise placed third in Lincoln-Douglas debate, and second in informative speaking at district; took a first in the L-D debate and informative speaking at regionals. Overall, Denise ranked third in the number of National Forensic League points earned. Denise also found time to be an active member in French Club, Public Affairs Club, Social Studies A-Team, National Honor Society and Teenage Republicans.

Whiz Quiz and Journalism Major Studies were JERRY MADDEN'S primary interests. As a member of the Whiz Quiz team, he became city champion. Jerry also served as Editorial Director of "Wildcat Tales" and as a member of the Spanish Club and Social Studies A-Team. During his senior year, he had the privilege of serving as a page for the Republican Convention in Dallas.

A natural group leader, DANIEL PLUNKETT was active in student government. He served as president of the Student Senate and was a member of student council. During his junior year, he served as class president. As a senior, he was named a National Merit Finalist and was selected as a member of the Social Studies A-Team.

Chris Robinson

Students recognized for accomplishments

Interested in working with children, CHRIS ROBINSON was involved in Child Development Major Studies. As a member of Project LEAD, he worked with handicapped children at a charity carnival. Chris also served as senior class Vice-President, was a member of Gamma Student Council, and served as a white guard for the varsity cheerleaders. He was selected a Rotary student of the month and Senior Class Favorite.

Musically talented, STEPHEN PRIMM'S involvement in band led to various honors at PSHS. As a senior, Stephen was named head drum major and received superior (I) ratings throughout UIL competitions. He was also a member of the All-Region band in his junior year. In addition to his band activities, Steve was involved in Future Farmers of America, in which he received such honors as Star Greenhand and a showmanship award at the Collin County Youth Fair. Hoping to continue his interests in music, Stephen will stay in Texas and attend East Texas State University.

NANCY METZ'S senior year was likely one she will remember for a long time. In addition to being crowned Homecoming Queen in the fall, she was captain of the Planoettes and a Class Beauty finalist. She also served in Student Council, Students Against Drunk Driving, Plano War on Drugs, and National Honor Society. Her interests in art was expressed through her involvement in Art Major Studies.

With an ambition for a career in communications, MICHELLE SPANN took interest in Social Studies Major Studies. Throughout the program, she served in the Public Affairs Club and on the Mock Trial team, and Social Studies A-Team. In addition, Michelle was a member of Planoettes, French Club, National Honor Society, Youth Against Cancer, Students Against Drunk Driving, and Student Council.

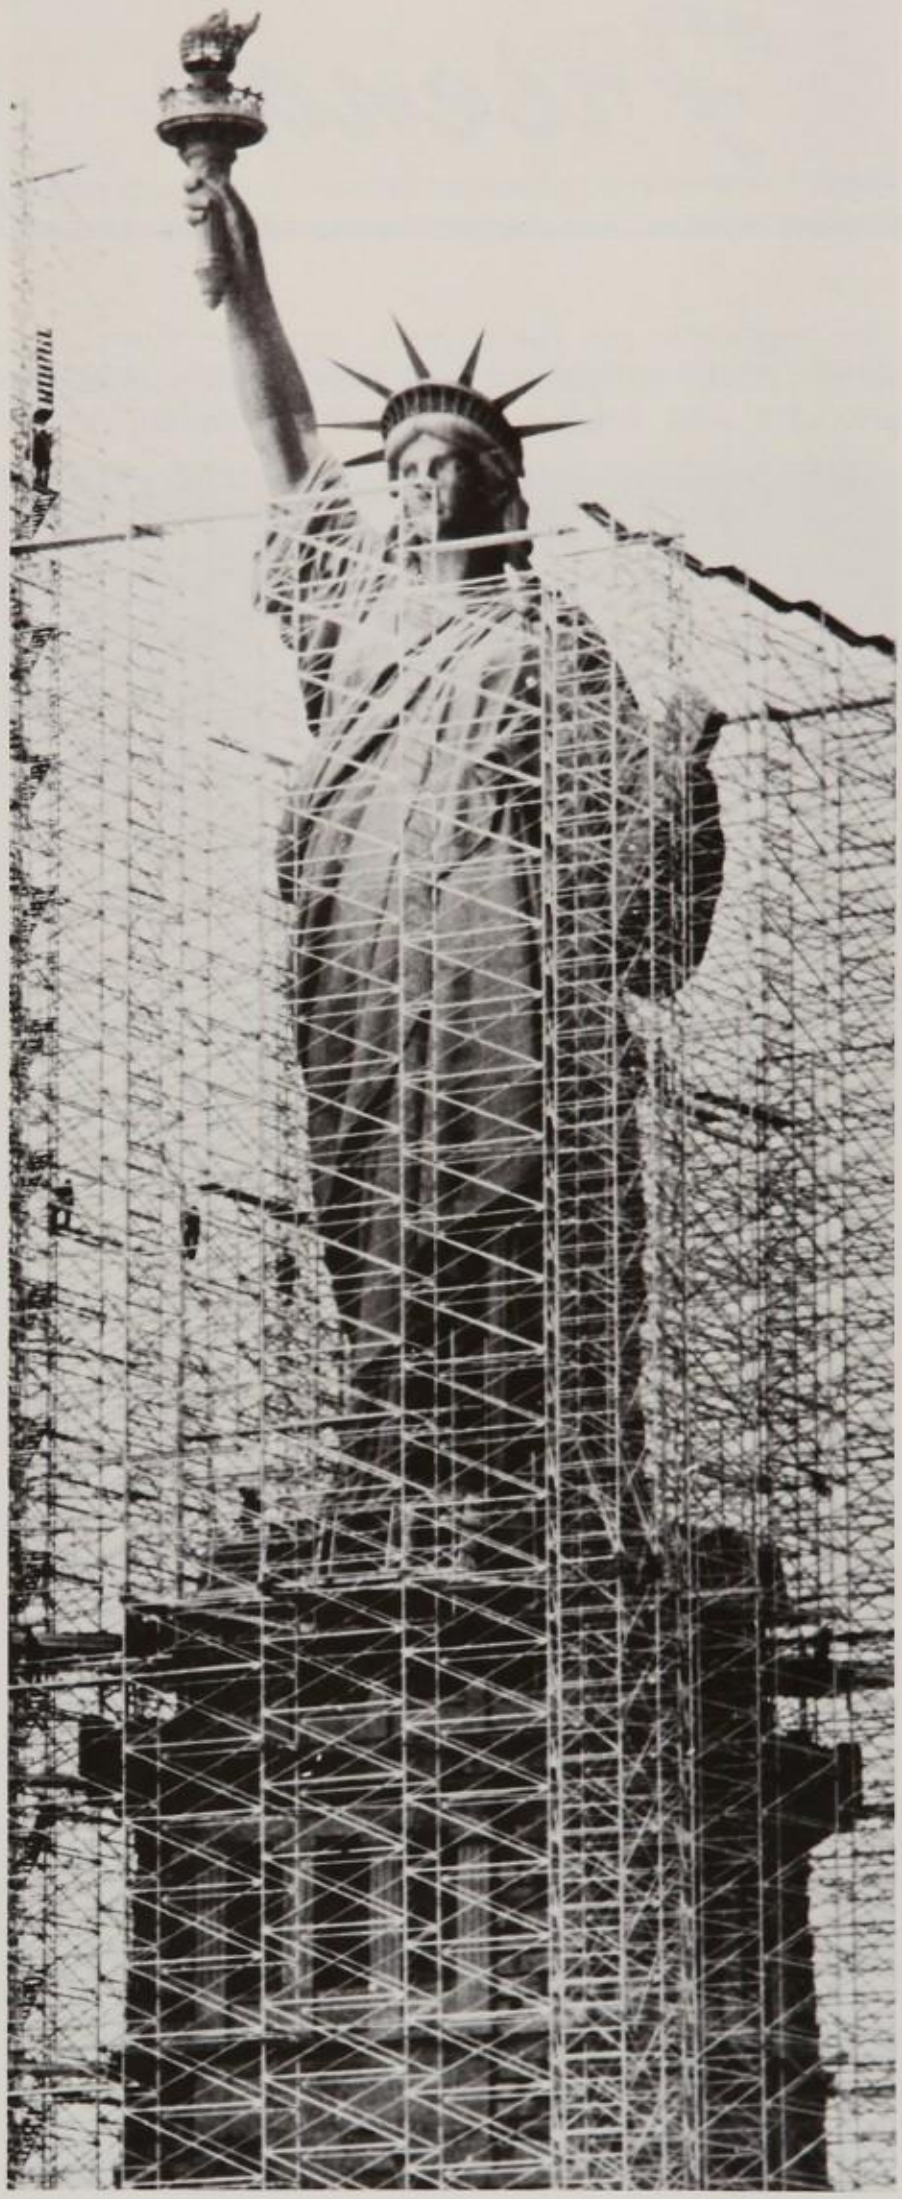
Winning San Francisco quarterback, Joe Montana, looks for a receiver behind protective blocking of left guard John Ayers (68) in first half of Superbowl XIX in Stanford Stadium.

Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale makes history when he chose a woman, Geraldine Ferraro, as his vice-presidential running mate. Mondale and Ferraro were nominated on the Democratic ticket at the party convention in San Francisco in July.



The Statue of Liberty celebrates her 98th birthday in 1984 and begins a two-year restoration in June. The statue was worn from constant pummeling by wind, salt air, and acid rain, and the iron ribbing of the statue was badly corroded.

Friends

Friends. They are there to care, to share, and to understand. No one can replace the void that a friend fills.

As students go their own separate directions, friends made in high school will remain closer in memories and bridge the gap between the miles. Friendship is a special relationship that extends to the boundaries that one allows it. As these boundaries grow, friendship itself expands.

Student Council members Jane Masters and Denise Pumpelly comfort senior Dawn Ridley as she donates blood.

REUNION ENTERPRISES

Remember the Moment

The 2:30 bell rings . . .

Lockers stood empty, the library bulged with last minute book returns, and senior withdrawal forms were stacked high in the registrar's office. Events of the year — Homecoming, spring break, Prom, and the effects of House Bill 72 were far from the minds of students as they prepared to leave. Seniors anticipated the end of their high school days and graduation while juniors looked forward to a carefree summer and the coming year when they would be . . . seniors.

and they all lived happily ever after

Junior Tracey Behrens makes last minute adjustments prior to Fashion Design's spring sale.

As part of the campus beautification move, Student Senate donated paw stepping stones between buildings.

Maybe someday senior Brian Eddy will have a Porsche 944 to impress girls like seniors Amy Holmes, Charlie Dietz, and Alice DeHoyos.

"I want to live in America," from "West Side Story," was one routine featured by the senior Planoettes in their spring show, Pizazz.

Not the maid or the butler,

The Planonian staff did it

Editors: Mike Corum, Tim Corum

Adviser: Mrs. Joyce Carol Levy

Section Editors: Christine Geiger, Ashley Meadors, Nadine Sjolseth, Jon Kramme, Jennifer Arrison

Staff: Tim Baird, Debie Bush, Kim Hepler, Shannon Hines, Paige Lyd, David McCully, Meghan Smith, Cheryl Wiemer, Missy Riepe

Photographers: Lisa Penszky, Beth Richardson, Marci Trent

The Planonian Staff would like to extend thanks to the following: Dan Martin, Henry Valenzuela, Kara Thompson, James Quach, and the Plano Star Courier for their photographic contributions and Debbie Hanson for table of contents artwork.

We also extend a very sincere thanks to Mrs. Levy for all her help. This book could never have been produced without her.

Shannon Hines, Debie Bush
